ONGC, Shell India sign deepwater, LNG MoU

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 10

OIL AND NATURAL Gas Corp (ONGC) and Shell Energy India Private have signed a non-binding memorandum of understanding (MoU) to explore joint opportunities in deepwater oil and gas exploration and liquefied natural gas sourcing, the state-owned firm said on Monday.

The agreement, signed on August 10, covers potential collaboration across India's energy sector, including joint participation in deepwater and ultra-deepwater offshore blocks offered under the government's Open Acreage Licensing Policy, or OALP, as well as future bidding rounds, ONGC said in a post on X.

ONGC and Shell Energy India will explore opportunities in OALP Rounds X and XI under the broader Samudra Manthan initiative, as well as potential farm-in and farm-out arrangements involving ONGC's existing OALP blocks, the company said.

The memorandum does not commit either company to specific investments or projects and provides a framework for evaluating potential areas of cooperation. The agreement with Shell builds on ONGC's recent efforts to bring international expertise into India's deepwater exploration programme. In August 2022, ONGC signed a Heads of Agreement with ExxonMobil to collaborate on deepwater exploration on India's eastern and western coasts.

ONGC has also signed memorandums of understanding with global majors including ExxonMobil and Chevron for deep- and ultra-deepwater exploration. On its collaboration with Shell, ONGC said the MoU is to explore potential collaboration opportunities across India's energy sector.

The partnership brings together ONGC's position as India's largest oil and gas explorer with Shell's global expertise across upstream exploration and LNG, potentially creating opportunities for cooperation across both domestic exploration and gas supply.

The upstream component comes as India seeks to accelerate exploration of its offshore resources and attract investment and technical expertise into more challenging deepwater and ultra-deepwater acreage.

Under the proposed collaboration, the companies could participate jointly in future offshore licensing rounds and assess opportunities to bring additional partners into existing ONGC blocks through farm-in and farm-out arrangements.

The LNG component could also become significant as India seeks to increase gas consumption while meeting rising energy demand and diversifying its fuel supply. The collaboration will focus on two key areas of mutual business interest.

"Upstream Oil & Gas: Exploring joint participation in deepwater and ultra-deepwater offshore blocks offered under (currently underway) Open Acreage Licensing Policy (OALP) Rounds X and XI, as well as future bid rounds, under the broader impetus of #SamudraManthan. The two companies will also explore farm-in/farm-out opportunities in ONGC's existing OALP blocks. The MoU sets out a non-binding framework for such collaboration," it said.

Secondly, the two firms would collaborate on LNG. "Exploring opportunities in #LNG sourcing to support India's transition towards a stronger gas-based economy, ONGC said.

JOINT PARTICIPATION

- The two companies will explore opportunities in OALP Rounds X and XI under the broader Samudra Manthan initiative
- The pact with Shell builds on ONGC's recent efforts to bring international expertise into India's deepwater exploration
- ONGC has also signed MoUs with global majors, including ExxonMobil and Chevron, for deep- & ultra-deepwater exploration

Govt mulls curbing use of cane for ethanol

RAJENDRA JADHAV & MAYANK BHARDWAJ
Mumbai/New Delhi, Aug 10

INDIA IS CONSIDERING restricting the amount of sugarcane used for ethanol in the season beginning October to boost sugar output and try to calm record prices, two government and two industry sources said.

Reduced rainfall in Maharashtra and Karnataka, India's biggest sugarcane-producing states, has raised concerns about next year's sugar output, the sources said, declining to be named because the deliberations are not public.

They said prioritising sugar supplies over ethanol could help India to avoid sugar imports by boosting domestic supplies as production falls and a decision on the issue could be made by the end of next month. Mills diverted about 3 million metric tons of sugar, or around 10% of total output, to ethanol production during the current year to the end of September.

Restricting that next season could add a similar volume to domestic sugar supplies, offsetting the expected drop in output due to weak rains in the biggest cane-growing states, the sources said. —REUTERS

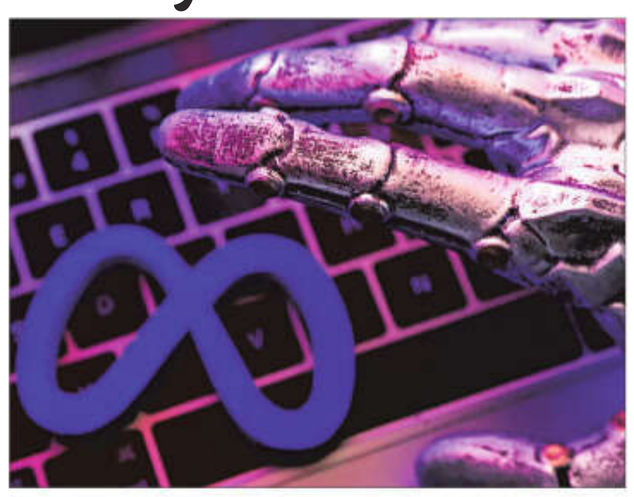
Meta launches AI model that runs on your PC



ZUCKERBERG, HOWEVER, EXPLICITLY defended the technique, stating that restrictions on it could undermine the US position in open AI.

"For the US to lead in open source, we will need to rethink our policies in several areas, including distillation and data use in training," Zuckerberg said.

"Some have tried to frame distillation as harmful, but I think it is important to protect the principle that you can learn from anything you can observe."

He also called for fewer restrictions on training data, saying American AI companies face additional constraints compared with foreign developers.

The intervention comes as the competitive landscape in AI is becoming increasingly divided between open-weight and closed models.

While OpenAI, Anthropic and Google have largely retained control over the weights of their leading models, Chinese companies including Moonshot, Alibaba and DeepSeek have pushed open-weight systems that can be downloaded and customised by developers. Meta itself has a long history of releasing open models through its Llama series, although it had moved towards a more closed approach with its latest generation of models.

Meta is now preparing to return to the open-weight strategy at the higher end of its model portfolio. The company said it would release the weights of Muse Spark 1.2, its most advanced model, in the coming weeks. The model was developed by Meta's superintelligence team, which the company formed last year as it sought to close the gap with frontier AI labs.

The move also comes amid growing concern among businesses over the cost of running increasingly large AI models.

Open-weight models can allow companies to run and customise models themselves, reducing dependence on expensive cloud-based inference and giving them greater control over data.

Glimmer takes that proposition further by enabling a relatively large model to run directly on consumer hardware.

Outcomes, not enrolments, new metric for edtech...

THE RENEWED INVESTOR interest comes against a sharp recovery in funding. According to Tracxn, edtech startups raised $178 million in the first half of 2026, more than double the $73.3 million raised in the corresponding period last year. Funding for the whole of 2025 stood at $155 million.

However, investors are no longer viewing hybrid learning or AI-enabled personalisation as meaningful differentiators. With both becoming increasingly standard, startups will have to demonstrate what their technology delivers rather than simply use AI as a selling point.

This is opening the door for newer models, including AI-enabled peer learning, lifelong learning platforms and deeper industry integration.

Globally, platforms such as Synthesis have demonstrated how AI can match students based on what they know and where they need help. In India, investors see an opportunity to formalise the peer-learning culture already prevalent among students preparing for competitive examinations.

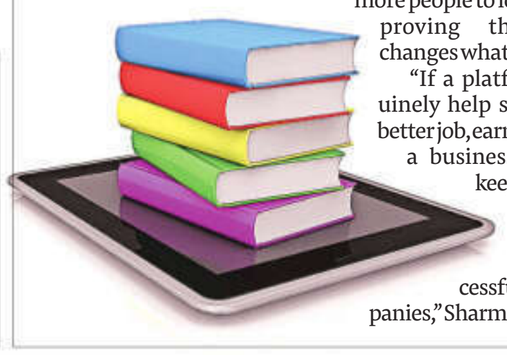
At the same time, edtech companies are looking to stay connected with learners beyond a single course or placement, offering continuous learning across career stages. Providers are also increasingly co-designing courses with employers, universities and certification bodies to ensure that skills are directly aligned with jobs.

Consolidation could be another feature of the next phase, with larger platforms looking to acquire smaller point-solution providers.

Creator-led learning communities and courses embedded directly into workplaces are also emerging as potential growth areas.

For investors, therefore, the edtech opportunity is no longer simply about getting more people to learn. It is about proving that learning changes what happens next.

"If a platform can genuinely help someone get a better job, earn more, or build a business, people will keep coming back. That's where I see the next wave of successful edtech companies," Sharma said.



Diageo gets a stiff one from FSSAI

"THIS RAISED SERIOUS food safety, misleading and misbranding compliance concerns regarding the safety of finished alcoholic beverages for consumers," the memo said. The seizure was in the interests of public health, the document added.

The FSSAI did not respond to queries about the seizure of thousands of Diageo bottles, which Reuters is reporting for the first time. The food standards regulator is taking an increasingly hard line against liquor firms, energy drink makers including PepsiCo and food manufacturers over labelling and compliance.

During their checks, inspectors found Diageo's bottles only had markings showing they were made from polyethylene terephthalate (PET), but should have carried a government-mandated recycled PET symbol that also indicates they are food-grade, a second government memo said. While most large bottles of Diageo drinks are made of glass, the action focused on plastic bottles used to retail the product in smaller quantities of typically 180 millilitres.

Products worth some $1.6 million as well as plastic material were seized during the inspection in the southern city, which impacted more than half a dozen brands, including DSP Black Deluxe Whisky, Smirnoff Zesty Lime Triple Distilled Flavoured Vodka and VAT 69 blended scotch whisky, the memos showed. Diageo, which has dubbed India its 'consumer market of the decade', has said it complies with the law.

Diageo recorded revenue of $3 billion in India in the year to March 2026, making it one of the two dominant foreign players in the market alongside France's Pernod Ricard. The FSSAI move comes days after it barred two of Diageo's popular whisky brands, alleging misleading declarations about the maturity of the liquor and the use of artificial flavouring.

The flavouring crackdown, which also includes some Indian companies, has jolted India's $40 billion alcohol industry as it concerns some popular Indian Made Foreign Liquor (IMFL), which is locally produced spirits modelled on international brands.

The FSSAI has also warned Diageo that it misleadingly claimed one of its top-selling whiskies was 'matured in American oak casks', when most of the product had not been matured, Reuters reported on Saturday.
