Commenting upon the results, Raman Bhatia, Managing Director, Servotech Renewable Power System Limited said, “This quarter has marked a strong one for Servotech, where we witnessed substantial growth, underscoring the strength of our strategy and execution. After a challenging previous quarter, this performance represents a decisive turnaround, one that reflects our resilience, course correction, and collective determination for our stakeholders and investors who trusted us along the journey. I am particularly proud of how we’ve responded to the setback and returned stronger, sharper, and more focused. Alongside scaling our core solar and EV charging verticals, this quarter we’ve further diversified our portfolio and strengthened our clean mobility presence with remarkable feats that we’ve achieved in this quarter. This quarter’s performance clearly reflects our focus on innovation and growing trust across the markets, and we remain committed to expanding our manufacturing capabilities, deepening partnerships, and driving technology-led growth in the energy sector. With clear visibility on future opportunities, we are confident in sustaining momentum while creating long-term value for shareholders and contributing to a more sustainable energy ecosystem for everyone.”
