Akash Deep's long journey to dream debut: 'Like bumpy road in my village'

SANDIP G
Ranchi, February 23

IN THE MOST glorious hour of his career, pacer Akash Deep decided to roll back the years.

The day that had started with him claiming three England wickets in his first six overs in Tests would end with him talking about the days when his cricket career was going nowhere.

Akash would recall 2015, when his father suffered paralysis and died due to medical negligence. It was the year he lost his elder brother as well.

His voice choking, Akash said: "My father wanted me to do something in life but I couldn't do anything while he was alive." Then resisting a tear, he dedicated his 3/70 effort on Day 1 to his father.

England, at stumps, were 302/7.

For Akash, it was an eventful morning. An hour before start, coach Rahul Dravid presented him with the Test cap. A bright smile spread over his face, before the 27-year-old went over to the boundary ropes where his mother and relatives were waiting. He hugged them and strolled back to the pavilion at the other end of the stadium.

The family were understandably emotional, they had been through a lot. "Apne gaon ki sadak jaisi journey rahi hai bilkul, ubad khabad (My journey has been like the road in my village, bumpy)," he had once told The Indian Express, recollecting his days in Dehri village in Bihar's Sasaram.

His father was a school teacher who wanted his son to pursue academics. Akash, though, loved cricket. But there were no facilities in his village. When asked how he started playing cricket in

Akash Deep was 18 when he picked up a red ball for the first time in his life

The breakthrough moment of his career came in 2019, when Bengal picked him to play Ranji Trophy childhood, he would sarcastically say: "Mera bachpan mein cricket tha hi nahin! (There was no cricket in my childhood)." Cricket, though, would turn into his obsession in his teenage years. However, it was not until he turned 18 that he picked up a red ball for the first time in his life.

Nine years later, though, he is in his dreamland. "Like any kid who plays cricket, it was my dream also to play Test cricket for India. But I never thought that I would realise it one day," he says.

The breakthrough moment of his career came in 2019, when Bengal picked him to play Ranji Trophy. An avenue opened, and he grabbed it with both hands. His journey would gather speed. Two years later, IPL franchise Royal Challengers Bangalore signed him. There he would pick the brains of Australia seamer Josh Hazlewood and gain valuable inputs from Virat Kohli.

He left an impression wherever he went. "Life has been such that I know I need to make every opportunity of mine count," he says. Little doubt that he seized the first hour of his Test debut, bowling with maturity of a veteran, blending pace and aggression, knowing exactly what lengths to bowl.

Days before his Test debut, he had sought the advice of Jasprit Bumrah, who was rested from this game. He imparted a valuable piece of advice. "Bumrah bhai told me to hit back of length on this pitch. He said at international level, batsmen keep trying to get forward at you, so back of length is better," Akash told broadcasters. And so he did, all three of his wickets came off hard length balls.

But his run-up, action and the skiddy pace was more reminiscent of Mohammed Shami, his Bengal colleague and his inspiration. He smiled shyly when the resemblance was put across. Emotion, though, didn't overwhelm him.

"It was very emotional but I also felt that there was a responsibility on my shoulders to do something for the team," he says.

For someone playing his first Test, he was staggeringly composed. The first time he hit the stumps — a nip-backer beat Zak Crawley — it turned out to be no ball. But he wasn't shattered. "As an individual, I didn't feel very bad because I knew that if I don't get him out, then someone else in my team will," he says.

He would soon atone, nabbing the wickets of dangerous opener Ben Duckett and in-form No. 3 Ollie Pope in the space of three balls. Then at the stroke of drinks break in the first session, he dislodged Crawley with another deadly in-ducker. His day was made.

IIM placements stable, fewer consulting jobs

Pay packages see an uptick from 2023

MANU KAUSHIK
New Delhi, February 23

EVEN AS SOCIAL media is abuzz with stories of bleak placements in the top-tier business schools, at least some Indian Institutes of Management (IIMs) have reported placement figures above last year's levels.

However, the early trend of recruitment from these top-notch business schools this year indicates a drop in job offers from consultancy firms, who generally pay better salaries.

An IIM-Calcutta spokesperson told FE that as many as 194 companies have come to recruit students from its PGP (postgraduate programme) batch this year, compared with 190 last year. The premium B School's highest pay package too saw an uptick from ₹1.05 crore last year to ₹1.15 crore in 2024.

At IIM-Lucknow, the number of recruiters have jumped from around 200 last year to over 250 this year, but this may also be due to a drop in placement offers from top-notch companies, allowing others to fit the bill. The total job offers at the institute remained nearly static this year at 634, compared with 632 last year.

Though IIM Ahmedabad refused to divulge the placement details for the current year, it said that the campus witnessed 23 new recruiters this year, including BlueStone, Crompton Greaves, DE Shaw, Diageo, HDFC ERGO, India Sotheby's International Realty, and others.

Despite the grim job scenario, how the IIMs (Ahmedabad, Calcutta and Lucknow) have managed to do well. A professor at IIM Kozhikode, who didn't wish to be identified, said that "though the profile of the recruiters changes in a bad year, the salaries aren't impacted. "We (IIMs) have built credibility over the years. Of course, the job offers tend to be different in a tough market."

For instance, he said, if job offers from the consultancy firms are fewer, students would opt for brick-and-mortar companies who will still offer comparable salaries. This is evident in the placement records of this year. Of IIM Calcutta's 2024 placements, the consulting sector had the largest share of 32% followed by firms seeking people for general management roles (24.6%).

In the latter category, companies such as ITC, Dabur, Vedanta, Adani, Hinduja, Aditya Birla Group, JSW, Reliance remained top recruiters. Last year, the number of consulting job offers was higher at 40.5%, and the general management roles were just 14.3% of the total offers.

"The best companies are always in need of talented people. If the top-notch institutes like IIMs are witnessing some change in their placement patterns, it could be due to general market conditions and specific to the capabilities of individual students in these institutes," said Roshni Puri, MD at Executive Access.
