Dear Sirs,

Subject: Update on Nil Bird Flu Incidence in Our Poultry Farms

Ref: Scrip Code: SKMEGGPROD (NSE) / 532143(BSE)

Further to our earlier update dated 6th January 2026 regarding bird flu, we would like to inform all stakeholders that there are currently no bird flu incidents in our poultry farms. All our eggs are produced exclusively in Tamil Nadu, and the Company does not have any operations in Kerala, where avian influenza cases were previously reported.

As previously communicated, our Company's poultry farm is recognized by the Government of India as an avian influenza-free compartment farm. Our birds are under continuous and rigorous surveillance at regular intervals to prevent avian influenza, Newcastle disease, and salmonella. This surveillance continues to be strictly maintained without interruption.

To further strengthen preventive measures:

- We have secured bird waste areas with chain-link systems to prevent entry of wild birds, which are a known source of infection.
- There are no vegetation or fruit-bearing trees within our farm premises that could attract wild birds.

We continue to enforce strict biosecurity protocols:

- Entry of external visitors is currently restricted.
- Internal movement of employees is tightly controlled, with mandatory biosecurity practices, including showering and the use of dedicated uniforms and footwear before moving between sheds.

Additionally, Authorities in Tamil Nadu are maintaining intensified surveillance, particularly in border districts, to prevent any spread of the disease. Enhanced monitoring systems and preventive measures, as directed by the Animal Husbandry Department, remain in force.

In light of the above, we assure all stakeholders that:

- The health condition of our layer birds remains stable and healthy.
- Egg production activities continue uninterrupted, with no threats or operational disruptions.

We will continue to closely monitor the situation and take all necessary precautionary measures to ensure the safety and continuity of our operations.

This is for your information and records.

Yours Faith fully,
