Ensure strict adherence to Indian law: Govt to Meta

AASHISH ARYAN
New Delhi, 6 August

The government has asked Meta to ensure strict adherence to the law of the land, including its algorithms, checks and balances on content uploaded across its platforms, and whether the company has sufficient guardrails to address potential transgressions, sources said.

The second consecutive meeting between Union Electronics and Information Technology Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw and Meta's Chief Global Affairs Officer Joel Kaplan took place late Thursday evening.

Kaplan had met Vaishnaw on Wednesday as well, during which he apologised to the minister on behalf of the company for the erroneous takedown of Prime Minister Narendra Modi's video, in which he addressed students protesting the leaking of the question papers for the National Eligibility Cum Entrance Test (Neet).

On Thursday, during the meeting that lasted more than an hour, senior government officials from the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology also questioned Meta executives about the processes and systems the company has in place for various kinds of content, and how it decides content visibility.

Meta's Chief Global Affairs Officer Joel Kaplan (above) met Union IT Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw for a second day on Thursday

"We have given them certain action items on a range of issues that we have monitored over the last several days. For example, their delayed inaction on the restoration of inadvertently taken-down posts has been flagged. Similarly, we have questioned them as to how, despite mechanisms, there is proliferation of child sexual abuse material across their platforms," a senior government official said, asking not to be named.

While Kaplan is likely to fly out of India soon and will be unable to attend any further meetings with the IT ministry officials on this trip, sources said that technical, policy, and legal teams from India and the US will continue to meet government officials over the next three to four days to answer all queries.

Kaplan has been accompanied by Neil Potts, the vice-president of public policy at Meta, Rafael Frankel, the head of Asia Pacific public policy at the company, Aman Jain, the head of public policy in India, and other senior executives during the meetings on Wednesday and Thursday.

On Wednesday, before meeting Vaishnaw, Kaplan and his team also met IT Ministry secretary S Krishnan and other senior officials.

The early afternoon meeting, lasted about 45 minutes, during which the ministry officials questioned Meta executives on several aspects, such as the presence of child sexual exploitative and abuse material (CSEAM), the takedown of Modi's post, the presence and proliferation of deepfake content across various platforms of Meta, as well as the intermediary's inaction on the issues raised by the Grievance Apellate Commitee, sources said.

Telegram founder warns of new cyber abuse method — 'takedown extortion'

AASHISH ARYAN
New Delhi, 6 August

Pavel Durov, founder of peer-to-peer messaging app Telegram, warned of an emerging form of cyber-enabled abuse known as "takedown extortion" on Thursday. According to him, cybercriminals use this method to target legitimate online communities by exploiting platform moderation systems.

"The tactics used by takedown extortionists are evolving, putting communities across social platforms at risk.

Pavel Durov, founder & CEO, Telegram

If an app used by more than a billion people can be removed from the App Store without prior warning, any app can be," Durov said.

These attackers use automated accounts to insert illegal content in public groups and then report it to the operators of the platform to trigger an enforcement action against the targeted communities.

"In an instance, the attacker allegedly exploited the message editing feature by modifying an older message with illegal content, making it effectively invisible to group members and preventing timely community reporting," Telegram said.
