Why Budget sprang a farm sector surprise

It's all about economic growth and changing consumer demand

SANJEEV MUKHERJEE
New Delhi, 19 February

Though the Union Budget for 2026-27 has been panned by some critics for ignoring farm sector challenges such as falling crop prices and the climate challenge faced, one area has done rather well — the allied sectors of India's farm economy.

From higher budgetary allocations to easing of taxes to change in definitions, the Budget had a clear tilt towards the allied sectors.

While the allocation for the Department of Agriculture and Farmers Welfare has gone up by a modest 6.07 per cent in the Budget Estimates of FY27 as compared with the Revised Estimate of FY26, money for the department of fisheries has gone up a massive 59.38 per cent and animal husbandry by 16 per cent.

The allocation for some allied sectors has gone up in the estimates despite their actual spending in FY25 being significantly lower. To be sure, the budget for the Department of Agriculture Research and Education (DARE) has in fact come down by 3.05 per cent.

Not only were allocations raised for allied sectors, but multiple proposals aimed to improve the livelihood of farmers, benefit aquaculture and harness the economic potential of India's marine resources — even beyond its territorial waters.

These announcements included making fish caught by an Indian fishing vessel in the Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) — which is defined as 170 km from a nation's coastline — or on the high seas from its territory, fish caught in the EEZ landing or foreign vessels will be treated as exports.

A new section — 56-A — was proposed to be inserted in the Customs Act of 1962 to provide special provisions for fishing and related activities by an Indian-flagged fishing vessel beyond the territorial waters of India.

For the animal husbandry segment, the Budget had a series of announcements that included a credit-linked subsidy programme for entrepreneurship development in rural and peri-urban areas, scaling up and modernisation of livestock enterprises, enhancement of creation of livestock, dairy and poultry-focused integrated value chains, and encourage creation of Livestock Farmer Producer Organizations.

Finance minister Nirmala Sitharaman also announced support for high value crops such as coconut, sandalwood, cocoa and cashew in coastal areas, agrar crops in the North-east and nuts such as almonds, walnuts and pine nuts in hilly regions with an allocation of ₹30 crore.

So what's so special about India's allied sector that the FY27 budget devoted so much space to it?

The crops factor
Data shows that allied sectors comprising livestock, forestry and logging, fishing and aquaculture together accounted for close to 46 per cent of the Gross Value Added (GVA) for agriculture and allied activities in the Triennium — or three years — ending (TE) 2023-24. Through crops still cornered a high share in the overall GVA for the farm sector in the TE 2023-24, their share is steadily falling.

Not only that, according to an article by NTI Aayog member Ramesh Chand titled 'Articles in Meeting the Aspirations of Rising India', published in the Quarterly Journal of the Indian Association of Social Science Researchers (IASSI), the share of crops in total agriculture GVA declined from 64 per cent in the TE ending 2014-15 to 54 per cent

In TE ending 2023-24 — a decline of 1 percentage point each year.

During the same period, the share of livestock increased by close to 8 percentage points from 21 per cent to 31 per cent while that of fishing and aquaculture increased by 2.3 percentage points from 5.17 per cent to 7.44 per cent.

"At this pace, the share of crops in the North-east and income will reduce to less than half by the year 2030," Chand concluded in his article, which was based on an address he delivered to the 34th annual conference of the IASSI in October 2025.

Clearly, the crop sector's share in the total farm sector GVA is gradually going down while that of the allied or ancillary sector is rising.

This trend has marked the farm sector in the last few years but appears to have hardened in the decade from 2014-15 to 2023-24. As Chand, a reputed agricultural economist, shows in his paper, the average growth rate in the GVA of agriculture and allied activities clocked one of its best decade in the 2014-15 to 2023-24 period at 4.45 per cent (at 2011-12 prices), largely on the back of the performance of the allied sectors of India's farm economy.

During this period, the sub-sectors of agriculture showed a wide variation in growth.

While the GVA of the crop sector recorded a 1 per cent growth in the decade from 2004-05 to 2013-14, it declined to 2.80 per cent during ended to reach 16, 21 and 37 million tonnes respectively in the BAU scenario in an HIC scenario, this will be 18-21, 24-29 and 41-48 million tonnes.

In 2019-20 (which was the base year for all calculations), India had produced 198 million tonnes (mt) of milk, 14 mt of fish, 9 mt of meat and 6 mt of eggs. Nearly the entire production of these four commodities is consumed within the country.

BAU as per the NTI report is a scenario where economic growth continues at an annual rate of 6.34 per cent (achieved between 2012 and 2019-20) while HIC is where growth jumps to 7 per cent and 8 per cent.

Farmers income

"The increased attention to Livestock and fisheries in the FY27 Budget is especially significant as these sectors will not only diversify the income streams for average farmers but can also help mitigate the risks due to weather conditions and other uncertainties," Anis Singh, partner at Deloitte India said.

FINANCE MINISTER NIRMALA SITHARAMAN ALSO ANNOUNCED SUPPORT FOR HIGH VALUE CROPS SUCH AS COCONUT, SANDALWOOD, COCOA, AGAR TREES, NUTS AND CASHEW

He said the GVA contributions from the livestock sector alone has been remarkable and within the livestock sector, the milk industry is at the forefront, generating over ₹1.36 trillion in revenues.

Singh said the livestock and agriculture sector naturally complement each other, and that the Budget's has tried to optimally capitalise on the interdependency between these two sectors for benefiting farmers.

The announcements for the animal husbandry sector — such as a credit linked subsidy programme — may provide momentum to encourage entrepreneurship in the livestock sector.

"When clubbed with institutional support, this could result in robust convergence, ensuring that those who receive formal credit are also absorbed in their respective regional dairy cooperatives," Singh said.

He, however, added that execution challenges may limit the impact of these proposals.

"The success of these initiatives for strengthening the end-to-end value chain will depend upon achieving seamless convergence between industry stakeholders. This would require institutional collaboration, from credit institutions to cooperatives and technical institutions to create a region-specific plan. This entails inviting expertise to understand what livestock mix works for the respective region and how a combination of different species could help achieve the intended benefit," Singh said.

The Union Budget has laid down a vision, but its success will depend on how well the institutions interact and collaborate to ensure that the farmers and entrepreneurs benefit optimally across the full value chain, he added.
