About Adenosine Injection

Adenosine is an endogenous nucleoside occurring in all cells of the body. Adenosine injection is a sterile solution for rapid bolus intravenous injection. Adenosine injection slows conduction time through the A-V node, can interrupt the reentry pathways through the A-V node, and can restore normal sinus rhythm in patients with paroxysmal supraventricular tachycardia (PSVT). Intravenous adenosine injection has been effectively administered in the presence of other cardioactive drugs without any change in the adverse reaction profile.
