Dabur India finds its Q2 growth tonic

Domestic top-line growth set to hit double digits after 19 quarters

RAM PRASAD SAHU
Mumbai, 12 October

Robust top-line growth in India and international operations, along with better-than-expected profitability in the second quarter (July-September/Q2) of 2026-27 (FY27), is a positive for fast-moving consumer goods (FMCG) major Dabur India.

India operations are expected to post double-digit revenue growth year-on-year (Y-o-Y) for the first time in 19 quarters, while international operations are expected to grow in the high teens in rupee terms. While input cost pressures are likely to weigh on profitability during the quarter, the impact on margins is expected to be partially offset by price hikes and cost controls. At the current price, the stock, which has shed about a quarter of its value over the past year, is trading at about 27x its 2027-28 earnings estimates.

In India, the home and personal care (HPC) business, which accounts for 46 per cent of revenue, could grow in double digits. Within personal care, hair oils and shampoos have registered growth in the high teens on the back of healthy consumer demand. Sales of perfumed and coconut hair oils have grown in double digits for the fourth consecutive quarter.

Nomura Research points out that the hair care portfolio, including shampoos, has grown in the high teens, slightly below Marico's value-added hair oil sales growth of more than 20 per cent. Despite a high base, oral care is expected to post mid-single-digit growth, while home care is expected to register high-single-digit growth.

The health care vertical, which accounts for 29 per cent of India

revenue, is expected to record mid-single-digit growth. Health supplements were affected by the ongoing transition to refreshed packaging and labels and could post flat to low-single-digit growth or a decline. The over-the-counter (OTC) and ethicals businesses registered a sequential recovery, with growth in the early teens on a low base. Digestives are expected to sustain their momentum and post high-teens growth.

Incremental growth is expected to come from the food and beverage segment. Within this segment, foods could grow at a strong double-digit rate, while the beverage portfolio is expected to post growth in the early teens. The sequential recovery in beverages follows three years of muted performance and has been driven by a wider range of formats and price points, as well as favourable seasonal conditions.

Nuvama Research estimates consolidated revenue growth at 11.8 per cent Y-o-Y, compared with 10.6

per cent in the first quarter (April-June/Q1) of FY27 and 5.4 per cent in Q2 of 2025-26 (FY26). This is supported by expected growth of 10 per cent Y-o-Y in the India FMCG business, which would mark a four-year high. Domestic volumes are likely to grow 5-6 per cent Y-o-Y, compared with growth of up to 5 per cent in Q1FY27 and 2 per cent in Q2FY26.

On the cost front, the company pointed out that inflationary pressures remain elevated, particularly in the HPC and OTC and ethicals businesses. While operating profit margins have come under pressure, the company has offset some of the impact through calibrated price increases and ongoing cost-saving initiatives. Brokerages expect operating profit growth to be in line with Q1FY27, while margins are expected to moderate Y-o-Y.

Nuvama Research expects gross margin to decline by 344 basis points (bps) Y-o-Y to 46 per cent, while operating profit margin is projected to fall by 62 bps to 17.8 per cent. Pricing actions are expected to help contain the impact of input cost pressures on operating margins. Analysts led by Abneesh Roy have retained their "buy" rating and unchanged target price of ₹620.

Nomura Research has also retained its "buy" rating, with a target price of ₹625. Analysts Mihir P Shah and Riya Patni of the brokerage point out that the business has begun to show sequential improvement and faces a soft, favourable base in the coming quarters.

How to avoid falling prey to shopping scams

SANJEEV SINHA

The GSM Association (GSMA) India Consumer Scam Report 2026 found that 12 per cent of Indian respondents had been scammed in the previous year. Online shopping scams accounted for 33 per cent of reported scams.

Recognise the warning signs
Scams involve fake websites, social media sellers who disappear after receiving advance payments, counterfeit goods, empty parcels, bogus delivery charges and fake customer support agents offering refunds.

"The lure is usually a bargain, while urgency or requests to pay outside a trusted platform are often the warning signs," says Prashant Mali, advocate and cyber, artificial intelligence (AI) and privacy law expert.

Scammers impersonate well-known brands and offer huge discounts. "Use the official app or website, verify the seller, and never share one-time passwords (OTPs) or download apps to claim offers or refunds. A professional-looking ad isn't proof of legitimacy," says Mali.

Remember that receiving money requires neither scanning someone's quick response (QR) code nor entering a Unified Payments Interface (UPI) personal identification number (PIN). Check the recipient, amount and instructions before approving payment.

Check the website and seller
Fraudsters create fake websites

What to do after a scam

- Call 1930 immediately to report the fraud
 - Alert your bank and ask it to stop or freeze the transfer of money
 - File a complaint on the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal
 - Save transaction IDs, payment receipts, screenshots, website links and chats
 - Change compromised passwords and block or replace affected cards
 - Monitor bank and payment accounts for suspicious activity

Can daughters lose property rights? Why Madras HC rejected sisters' claim

In the MPandiarajan v Tmt Andal case, decided on September 10, the Madras High Court allowed a brother's second appeal and set aside earlier decrees granting two sisters a one-third share each. The case involved properties linked to the siblings' parents and raised questions on co-ownership, ouster, an unproved Will and the failure to include necessary parties in a partition suit.

The sisters, Andal and Ambika, claimed a one-third share each in properties left by their mother, Sundarathachi, who died in 1991 without a Will. The court examined an earlier 1953 Will made by their maternal grandmother. It found that the Will intended the properties to pass to Sundarathachi's children, irrespective of gender.

with addresses that resemble those of genuine brands, copy their logos and images, and promote them through online ads.

Check the web address, seller's legal name and contact details, and return policy. "A padlock symbol does not guarantee the genuineness of a website. Avoid sites that accept payments only to a personal UPI identifier (ID) and have no clear return policy," says Srinivas L, joint managing director (MD) and joint chief executive officer (CEO), 63SATS Cybertech.

Verify parcels before paying Fraudsters use leaked personal data to send unsolicited cash-on-delivery (COD) parcels, hoping someone at home will pay. Others supply counterfeit or worthless goods against orders.

"Before paying, match the parcel details with your shopping app. Refuse unsolicited deliveries and never share an OTP to cancel an order. Use open-box delivery where available and record a video while unboxing. For disputes, contact the National Consumer Helpline at 1915," says Srinivas.

Use official contacts
Fraudsters plant fake helpline numbers online. They then pose as customer-care executives and ask people to download screen-sharing apps, share OTPs, enter UPI PINs, or scan QR codes for refunds. "Use contact details listed on the official app or website. Report suspicious messages through Chakshu on the Sanchar Saathi portal and financial fraud immediately on 1930. Speed matters," says Srinivas.

Check apps, then download
Counterfeit retail apps are used to collect banking details, passwords and other sensitive information or induce fraudulent payments.

Download apps only from official app stores, ideally using the link on the retailer's own website. Check developers' names, reviews and requested permissions. "Be wary of apps seeking access to contacts, messages or call logs. Never share your UPI PIN, card PIN or OTP to receive a refund," says Dhruv Kaushal, partner, King Stubb & Kasiva, Advocates and Attorneys.

Treat sponsored ads carefully
Paid ads on search engines and social media promote fake shopping sites, counterfeit goods and implausible deals. "Type the retailer's address yourself and check its business details, customer-care number, privacy policy and refund terms. Avoid unfamiliar websites," says Kaushal.

Verify vouchers and cashback
Discounted gift cards, vouchers and cashback offers lure buyers into making advance payments or sharing financial details. Fraudsters can misuse card details, OTPs and login credentials to steal more after a small initial payment.

"Buy vouchers only from official websites, apps or authorised partners. Never share your card details, card verification value (CVV), OTP or gift card codes to claim a deal," says Kaushal.
