Shareholders oust TPG's Bhatia from Shriram Transport board

SAMIE MODAK & T E NARASIMHAN
Mumbai/Chennai, 23 August

Minority shareholders of Shriram Transport Finance Company (STFC) overwhelmingly voted against a resolution to reappoint private equity major TPG Capital Asia's co-managing partner and India head Puneet Bhatia as a board member.

This makes it a rare instance of public shareholders coming together to oust a high-profile India Inc board member. The issue also underscores the growing scrutiny by investors and voting advisory firms of the performance of board members.

Vehicle finance company STFC got shareholders' approval on all the seven resolutions it floated at the annual general meeting (AGM) on Thursday, barring the one "to appoint Puneet Bhatia, who retires by rotation as a director."

While the resolution got 100 per cent promoter votes, over 83 per cent of public shareholders, mainly institutional investors, voted 'against'. Overall, the resolution, got only 43.1 per cent votes, failing to reach the 50 per cent threshold required to pass an 'ordinary resolution.'

Most proxy advisory firms had recommended 'against' vote on the resolution, raising red flags over his poor attendance at board and other committee meetings.

"No concern regarding profile and time commitment. However, director (Bhatia) has low attendance," said Stakeholders Empowerment Services (SES), in its voting advisory note.

In 2019-20, Bhatia attended only three of the six board meetings held by STFC, where he served as non-executive director. Also, his attendance in audit committee and corporate social responsibility meetings was just 40 per cent and 33 per cent, respectively.

"A director is no more an ornament for the company or a badge for an individual. Investors expect directors to be more engaged with companies whose boards they serve on. In the absence of any parameter on this, board attendance is seen as a surrogate measure of board-level participation," said Amit Tandon, managing director (MD), Institutional Investor Advisory Services (IIAS), which too had recommended an against vote.

Bhatia couldn't be reached immediately for a comment. Voting advisory firms expect a director to attend at least 75 per cent of board meetings. STFC's management was batting for Bhatia's reappointment despite his sub-par attendance.

"It would be unfair to arrive at any judgement or vote against recommendation solely based on the guideline that he did not attend 75 per cent board meetings of STFC in FY 2019-20. This will not be in the larger interest of shareholders of the company," STFC had said.

Justifying his reappointment, the Chennai-based firm had said "Bhatia has made significant contributions for success and excellent performance of the company. The management has highly benefited from his association, guidance and advice through discussions and deliberations on strategic matters."

Voting advisory firms are often criticised by companies for strictly following quantitative metrics such as attendance, age and number of director positions held.

In 2018, the issue had come to the fore after some global voting advisory firms had recommended 'against' vote on HDFC's resolution to re-appoint Deepak Parekh as director as he held board positions in eight other companies.

Besides heading TPG Capital Asia, which manages $6 billion in assets, Bhatia serves as director in about a dozen other entities. Before joining TPG in April 2002, Bhatia was head of GE Capital India, another private equity. Bhatia had joined STFC's board as nominee director of TPG in 2006 after the private equity firm acquired an indirect stake in STFC.

CAPA: Aviation industry will need $5 bn to stay afloat

Coronavirus-hit domestic aviation industry requires a capital infusion of around $5 billion to keep it afloat as expected consolidated industry losses may stand at $6 billion this financial year, aviation consultancy and advisory firm CAPA has said.

However, structural issues, including the uncertainty, are unlikely to help them take advantage of the low crude prices and excess liquidity both globally and in India, and raise these funds, according to a presentation by the Centre for Asia Pacific Aviation. "Covid will inflict an unprecedented financial impact. Airlines are the most vulnerable," CAPA said.

According to it, the consolidated industry losses are likely to stand at $6-6.5 billion in FY21, excluding airport concessionaires and other ancillary sectors, and an estimated $4.5-5 billion of funding will be required to overcome this crisis, mostly for airlines.

Noting that barring IndiGo, which had a cash reserve of $1.36 billion at the end of March, the liquidity available with the industry at the end of the previous fiscal was just $200 million. PTI

Serum Institute: Covishield will be out only when trials successful

SOHINI DAS
Mumbai, 23 August

Amidst reports claiming Serum Institute of India would be ready with Covishield vaccine in 73 days, the Pune-based company on Sunday clarified that these claims were misleading.

"The government has granted us permission to only manufacture the vaccine and stockpile it for future use," Serum Institute said on Sunday. The drug-maker said the vaccine would be commercialised once the trials are proven successful and all the requisite regulatory approvals are in place. It said the claims surrounding Covishield's availability in the media were "conjectural".

Covishield is the vaccine candidate from Oxford-AstraZeneca that is under development. Serum Institute began phase-II trials in India last week.

The phase-III trials for the Oxford-AstraZeneca vaccine are underway. "Only once the vaccine is proven immunogenic and efficacious, we will confirm its availability, officially," the firm said. Union Health Minister Harsh Vardhan had said on Saturday that "one of India's Covid-19 vaccine candidates is in the third phase of clinical trials" and that a vaccine will be developed "by the end of this year".

According to experts, phase-III trials typically take 3-6 months, even if they are expedited.

Nilekani: Covid led to revival of tech, expertise

The coronavirus pandemic has led to the revival of technology and expertise, and brought the realisation that for the future of the world, "deep knowledge and deep technology" are required, Infosys co-founder Nandan Nilekani said on Sunday.

He said that during the crisis, digital and medical tech stood out, which enabled people to work from home, among other things, and helped in dealing with the virus by developing better tests, drugs, and vaccines.

Nilekani expressed happiness over the innovations in the field of vaccination, especially in India, and said that by the first half of 2021, vaccine-induced herd immunity can be achieved and things would start going back to normal.

"Another very important tech, which is now becoming apparent to the world, is technology of medicines," he said while addressing the graduating students of Indian Institute of Technology Gandhinagar. PTI
