Modi cautions people against letting guard down in fight against Covid-19

In his Mann ki Baat address, says pandemic can turn uncontrollable with overconfidence

OUR BUREAU
New Delhi, April 26
Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Sunday warned people in the country against being overconfident just because Covid-19 has not reached their doorsteps yet saying when the guard is lowered the pandemic can spread beyond control.

"To my countrymen, I urge, let us not at all get caught in the trap of overconfidence, let us not harbour a feeling that if corona has not yet reached our city, our village, our street or our office, it is not going to reach now. See! Never make such a mistake! The experience of the world is narrating a lot to us! And, here in our country we are always reminded again and again - When caution has been lowered, the accident has happened", the Prime Minister said in his monthly Mann ki Baat programme.

People-driven fight
Greeting people on the occasion of 'Akshay Tritiya', Modi said: 'The day reminds us that our soul, our life-force, is 'Akshay'. This day reminds us that no matter how many difficulties block our path, no matter how many disasters are wreaked upon us and no matter how many contagions have to be faced - the human spirit of fighting and battling them is inexhaustible.' He also greeted the followers of Jainism and Lord Basaveshwara as this was an auspicious day for both the communities. Modi also used the occasion to remember the farmers in the country who work hard in adverse conditions to create vast reserves of foodgrains for feeding the rich and the poor alike. "Our farmer brothers and sisters - on the one hand, they are toiling day and night amidst the scourge of the pandemic; on the other displaying due concern to ensure that none in the country goes to bed hungry", he said. According to Modi, India's fight against coronavirus is people-driven, with the government and administration ably supporting them. Every person in this country is a soldier in the battle against Covid-19, putting up a fight in as per one's capacity and ability from food for the underprivileged, arranging ration, ensuring lockdown, arrangements in hospitals to manufacturing medical equipments indigenously... the entire country is marching ahead together in the same direction, towards a single common objective, the Prime Minister observed.

According to him, the country is already experiencing the results of the country working in unison as a team. While Central government, State governments and every departments and institutions are working hand in hand to make sure relief reaches everyone in the country, those working in aviation sector and railways are toiling day and night to ensure the supply of essential goods and medicines reach the farthest corners of the country.

"Every adverse situation, every blow leaves in its wake a worthwhile lesson or two; a moral. It paves the way for further possibilities, shaping the course for new goals. The strength of the resolve the countrymen have displayed during the crisis has led to the beginning of a new transformation too in India. Our businesses, offices, educational institutions, our medical sector are rapidly advancing towards new operational changes. On the technology front, it actually seems every innovator in the country is coming up anew with something or the other amid emerging situations", Modi said.

Democratic accountability missing: Yechury

OUR BUREAU
New Delhi, April 26
The CPIM General Secretary Sitaram Yechury has written yet another letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi suggesting that huge stocks of foodgrains are rotting in central godowns and these should be sent to the States for free distribution. He alleged that none of his previous letters raising issues faced by common people were not even acknowledged by the PMO and said democratic accountability is missing.

He reiterated that the forty-day nation-wide lockdown was announced suddenly and abruptly with a mere four-hour notice. Hunger, malnutrition and homelessness continue to plague the lives of people. Since the start of lockdown, we had suggested that the Centre must immediately provide free food to all the needy, he said.

LittleMore Innovation launches exam-from-home solution for varsities

OUR BUREAU
Chennai, April 26
LittleMore Innovation Labs, a leading company in paperless digital examinations, has launched an exam-from-home solution - PEXA Lite - to help colleges and universities beat the Covid blues.

The nationwide lockdown since March 24 because of the Covid pandemic has thrown into disarray the examination schedule of colleges and universities. LittleMore launched a paperless digital examination product in the market in 2013, providing both the hardware - a digital device called Digital - and the software - PEXA, which is provided on the cloud. It has signed up a number of colleges and universities in the country.

According to Srikanth

Ganesan, Founder and CEO, LittleMore Innovation Labs, PEXA Lite will be launched in India, followed by the UAE, Australia, Malaysia and Singapore. There has been demand for the product from its clients, prompting it to come up with PEXA Lite. It can be operated on a Windows or Android device. Colleges and universities are keen to have a solution that enables them to conduct the examinations from home. "We are likely to conduct exams for 50,000 students in June for our customers," said Ganesan.

PEXA Lite is a device agnostic solution, designed to deliver examinations on student laptops, tablets and smartphones at homes. It has built in biometric and digital proctoring features, which monitor student activities.

Insurance, securities firms to use Aadhaar authentication under money-laundering Act

OUR BUREAU
New Delhi, April 26
The Finance Ministry has allowed 29 insurance companies and nine stock securities entities to undertake the Aadhaar authentication services of UIDAI under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 (PMLA).

This would allow these entities to perform e-KYC in real time and would also reduce the cost of their transactions, Finance Secretary Ajay Bhushan Pandey said.

This would also be beneficial to the customers or the investors, especially the small and retail investors, as they need not submit physical papers or documents for know-your-client (KYC), he said.

The Finance Ministry has allowed these entities to use Aadhaar authentication services under PMLA subject to

Corporate heads expect economy to bounce back within 12 months

OUR BUREAU
Mumbai, April 26
While both industry and business have been impacted negatively and the country's GDP growth is projected to be under 2 per cent in the current fiscal, corporate honchos expect the economy to bounce back in under 12 months. The good news is that only a fraction of CXOs are looking to lay off staff.

A majority of the CXOs are of opinion that the country would emerge stronger on the back of MSME stimulus package, fiscal incentives and 'Make in India' policy among others, according to a study by Astrum, a specialist reputation management advisory. CXO is a general term to collectively refer to corporate executives with titles such as chief executive officer, chief financial officer and chief technology officer.

About 66 per cent believe that they will emerge stronger and smarter out of the crisis and 17 per cent believe that they will be back to where they were, according to the study.

CXOs felt the biggest challenge in this crisis was managing cash flows (47 per cent) and business continuity (28 per cent) followed by profitability (12 per cent), employee retention (7 per cent) and growth (6 per cent).

The key lesson they learnt was that engaged employees (40 per cent) and crisis preparedness (31 per cent) are critical for success in difficult times.

Another interesting finding was that a strong reputation of the organisation helps weather the storm as employees, partners, other stakeholders in the ecosystem are more invested.

'Indore's huge Covid toll may be due to more virulent strain'

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
Bhopal, April 26
Doctors treating Covid-19 cases in Indore say a more virulent strain may be wreaking havoc in the city, which has emerged as the coronavirus hotspot in Madhya Pradesh.

They say samples from Indore, where Covid-19 has killed 57 people, will be sent to the Pune-based National Institute of Virology (NIV) to confirm their apprehensions of the strain being deadlier than reported in other parts of the country.

More virulent
"We have a feeling the strain is definitely more virulent in Indore belt. We have discussed this with the NIV and they will be sending samples for them to compare by extraction of virus genome, Dean of Government Mahatma Gandhi Memorial (MGM) Medical College Jyoti Bindal said.

"There are other factors also for the high fatality rate, like patients turning up at the hospitals late," she said. "In Indore belt, the testing is confined to coronavirus detection only, and not its type, another doctor said.

Jitendra Bhargava, director of the state government-run School of Excellence in Pulmonary Medicine, also shared Bindal's concern, saying the high mortality rate in Indore needs to be investigated through viral culture and RNA extraction.

Mortality rate
It is also true that the mortality rate is high in patients who had comorbidities (presence of additional conditions along with the primary condition) such as cardiac and renal problems or diabetes and hypertension besides other immunity-compromising conditions, he said.

"The novel coronavirus is posing a big challenge due to multiple strains. This will make the development of a universal vaccine much more difficult," he said.

OUR BUREAU
New Delhi, April 26
The Native Angels Network, co-founder of Uzhavarni, a former IT sector employee, the angel investment arm of Nativeel, has invested ₹1.2 crore in Uzhavarni Agro Products Pvt Ltd, based in Madurantakam, about 75 km south of Chennai.

The investors who have participated in this round are from Madurai, Karur, Chennai, Coimbatore and Tuticorin.

Uzhavarni works directly with farmers and agro workers, to bring fresh milk to consumers' tables without chemical interference, according to a press release from Nativeel.

Founded in 2017, the start-up aims to establish direct trade between local farmers and consumers. Its offerings include fresh milk (delivered within 12 hours of sourcing), ghee and paneer.

According to Vetrivel Palani, co-founder of Uzhavarni, a former IT sector employee, the idea behind the venture was the notion that organic and fresh produce should be commodities that are available for all, regardless of their socio-economic status.

The company has been working directly with individual farmers and cattle owners to source fresh milk which is transported to their facility in Madurantakam. The milk is then chilled in sterilised conditions, and bottled in eco-friendly glass bottles. The bottled milk is distributed to consumers within 12 hours.

The company now sells 4,000 bottles a day with the milk priced at ₹60 a litre. Sankar Kanagasabai, the lead investor, is helping the company in adopting global best practices.
