Palm jumps 1.7% on strong demand from India

Singapore: Malaysian palm oil rose for a second straight session on Monday, gaining 1.7 per cent to 4,440 ringit a tonne on support from strong demand from top importer India, although China's denial that it was considering easing its zero Covid-19 policy capped the gains. The benchmark contract on the BMD climbed more than 9 per cent last week. REUTERS

FSSAI scuttles move to sell 'blended basmati rice'

REGULATORY MOVE. Decision will protect purity of rice and prevent dilution

Subramani Ra Mancombu
Chennai

SAFEGUARDING MEASURE. Blended variety will affect the reputation of basmati globally

The Food Safety and Standards Authority of India (FSSAI) has scuttled efforts to introduce "blended Basmati rice" for sale in the country by deciding not to accede to a proposal that has been in the works since 2017.

"The FSSAI decision basically will protect the purity of basmati and not allow any dilution, given the geographical indication (GI) tag for it," said S Chandrasekaran, a trade analyst and author of "Basmati Rice: The Natural History Geographical Indication".

TO BENEFIT FARMERS

The decision, notified on October 31, will benefit farmers to get more returns, while consumers will gain by getting to eat "pure basmati". Right now, domestic consumers pay more for basmati with prices ranging between ₹100 and ₹250 a kg.

In the global market, Indian basmati rice 2 per cent broken is quoted at $1,500 a tonne, data from the Thai Rice Exporters' Association showed.

FSSAI said it had sought feedback if the blended basmati category should be omitted or allow 30 per cent blending. The other argument against the blended basmati sale is that the purity of seeds used by growers is 98 per cent. Thailand's premium Jasmine rice is marketed with 98.5 per cent purity, while Saudi Arabia and the UK do not allow basmati rice to be sold with not more than 7 per cent of other varieties mixed in it.

The decision will also regulate the basmati market, which has a demand of about 4 million tonnes (mt) for exports and 1.5 mt in the domestic market.

Higher crop takes steam off Bengal's premium rice variety

OUTPUT SURGE. Production of Gobindobhog rice is 5-7% higher; prices are down 11%

Prices of West Bengal's premium variety of aromatic rice, Gobindobhog, have declined by 11 per cent on the back of prospects of higher arrivals and better quality produce.

The 20 per cent customs duty imposed by the Centre to curb rice exports has affected its shipments, too, thereby bringing down the prices, sources said.

The old crop, which typically fetches a premium over the new crop because of better demand, is currently hovering at ₹42-45 a kg this year against ₹50 a kg at the same time a year ago.

The production of Gobindobhog is estimated to be 5-7 per cent higher this year, on the back of a quality crop giving a better paddy to rice conversion rate, industry insiders suggest.

EXPORT, OUTPUT

The production of paddy is estimated to be 3.25 lakh tonnes (lt) in 2022-23 against 3.08 lt in 2021-22. The production of rice is estimated to be close 2.01 lt (1.80 lt). The country exported 14,000 tonnes of Gobindobhog in FY21 and 9,000 tonnes in 2021-22.

Gobindobhog is a non-Basmati type indigenous aromatic rice from West Bengal. The GI-tagged paddy variety is primarily cultivated in East Burdwan district in Raina 1, Raina 2 and Khandaghosh blocks.

HIGH PRODUCTION

According to Suraj Agarwal, CEO, Tirupati Agri Trade, the crop quality had suffered last year due to untimely rains during the harvest thereby impacting prices. However, this time with favourable weather conditions, both quantity and quality of production is expected to be higher. The new crop will start arriving at the market by third week November.

"Usually in case of Gobindobhog, the price of the old crop rules higher around this time of the year. But now this year we are seeing the prices are suppressed prices as the production of new crop is estimated to be higher and of better quality," Agarwal told businessline.

Typically, 100 kg of paddy gives close to 58 kg of Gobindobhog rice. But this year the industry expects 62 kg rice.

Over the last few years, the premium Gobindobhog has been witnessing a steady rise in prices backed by a firm demand from both domestic and international markets. The area under cultivation, 35,000 hectares in 2019-20, has gone up to about 44,000 hectares in 2022-23.

Sugar industry hopes for a further hike in export quota

Our Bureau
Pune

The sugar industry is hopeful that the government will allow export of additional 30 lakh tonnes (lt) of sugar, said Sonjoy Mohanty, Director-General, Indian Sugar Mills Association (ISMA). This will ensure steady domestic prices, enable timely payments to cane farmers and lower inventory levels, he added.

Based on initial estimates of sugarcane production, the Centre has allowed 60 lt of sugar exports during 2022-23 sugar season. The shipments will have to be done by May 31.

He said that the permission to sugar mills to exchange their export quota with domestic quota of any other mills within 60 days from date of issuance of the order will ensure liquidation of surplus stock.

FARMERS' DUES

This will also allow mills to generate revenue thereby ensuring timely payment to farmers for cane.

In ISMA's statement issued on October 17, the industry body had requested the government to allow export of 90 lt, considering the country's expected total sugar stocks.

The Centre has prioritised availability of about 275 lt sugar for domestic consumption, about 50 lt for diversion to ethanol production, which would leave a balance of about 60 lt as on September 30, 2023.

The remaining quantity of sugar produced by sugar mills in the country will be allowed for export. Since at the beginning of sugar season 2022-23, initial estimates of sugarcane production are available, it has been decided to allow the export of 60 lt sugar. The sugarcane production will be reviewed periodically and based on the latest available estimates, quantity of sugar exports to be allowed could be reconsidered.

RRII to hold GM rubber trials at Guwahati farm

V Sajeev Kumar

RIGOROUS TEST. The GM rubber plants will be evaluated for 15 years for diseases and yield before commericialisation

The Rubber Research Institute of India (RRII) will carry out confined field trials of newly-developed genetically modified (GM) rubber plants at the Sarutari Farm of its Guwahati regional research station, its director Jessy MD has said.

"The trials will be carried out following the standard operating procedures issued by the Biotechnology Department on one acre of the farm. The stress-tolerance traits under field conditions, disease incidence and yield will be evaluated for 15 years before their commercialisation," she said.

APPROVAL FOR HEVEA

Two weeks ago, the Genetic Engineering Appraisal Committee (GEAC) approved field trials for GM rubber called Hevea.

RRII has been instrumental in developing the transgenics and conducted follow-up actions for the grant of permission for field trials, she said. The commercial release of any transgenic plant, she added, is possible only after conducting field trials and the Centre has a strict regulatory framework for the release of transgenic plants.

The demand for natural rubber is increasing and land available in the traditional areas is limited for the expansion of rubber cultivation.

LIMITING FACTORS

For increasing production, rubber cultivation is required to be carried out in non-traditional regions as well. Adverse environmental conditions such as high and low temperatures, high light intensity, soil moisture stress, etc are limiting factors for rubber cultivation in these areas.

Rubber requires a humid tropical climate and climatic stresses have the potential to affect the growth and yield of rubber. Breeding for stress tolerance is a priority area of research of the RRII and evolving new clones requires more than 20 years of continuous evaluation, as rubber is a perennial tree, she said.

COMMODITY CALL.

Bet long on MCX copper

Akhil Nallamuthu
bl. research bureau

Copper futures on the Multi Commodity Exchange (MCX) largely moved sideways through October. For most part of the month, the November contract was held majorly in the ₹646-664 price band.

But as November came, the contract began to attract fresh longs and the momentum turned bullish, enough to raise the price above ₹664.

However, the broader trend is still bearish, and a decisive close above ₹700 can change this otherwise. Nevertheless, the contract might touch ₹700 in a couple of weeks. A breakout of ₹700 can quickly lift the price to ₹720 where the 200-day moving average lies currently.

TRADE STRATEGY

As the price action of late shows a positive signal, traders can risk going long now. We suggest buying MCX copper futures at the current level of ₹675 and add more longs if price dips to ₹666. Keep stop-loss at ₹648 at first and move it up to ₹678 when the contract crosses over ₹690. Exit the longs ₹700.

For traders who can take a bit more risk, book three-fourth of your positions at ₹700 and hold the rest for a higher target of ₹718. But make sure to tighten the stop-loss to ₹690 once the contract gets over ₹700.

Skies over interior TN clear up ahead of big spell

Vinson Kurian
Thiruvananthapuram

The skies over interior Tamil Nadu cleared briefly on Monday, except Chennai and the surroundings over the northern coast, after the trough that connected the Comorin area (South-East Arabian Sea) with the cyclonic circulation over South-East Bay of Bengal collapsed.

The truncated trough now connects the South-East Bay with the South-West Bay, off the Sri Lanka and Tamil Nadu coasts.

BRIEF LULL

This will provide a brief lull from intense thunderstorms that have hit the region over the past couple of days until a rain-driving low-pressure area, the first of the season, forms over the South-West Bay off the Sri Lanka coast in the next couple of days (by Wednesday). The India Meteorological Department (IMD) expects it to track to the North-West towards the Tamil Nadu-Puducherry coast, with a possible slight intensification during the subsequent two days (by Friday).

Fairly widespread to widespread light to moderate rainfall with isolated heavy falls will likely impact the Andaman and Nicobar Islands, which are forecast to continue on Tuesday.

RAIN FORECAST

Fairly widespread to widespread light to moderate rainfall with isolated heavy falls, thunderstorms and lightning are likely over Tamil Nadu, Puducherry, Karaikal, Kerala and Mahe and South Andhra Pradesh from Friday. Isolated very heavy falls are also likely over Tamil Nadu, Puducherry and Karaikal on Friday.

New maize hybrids that stay green

Chennai

Corn breeder HC Lohitashwa with new hybrids at a UAS-Bengaluru demo plot

The University of Agricultural Sciences-Bengaluru has developed two new corn hybrids that stay green on the fields during the time of harvest, thereby enhancing their value as a forage.

The new hybrids — MAH 14-138 and MAH 15-84 — developed from existing parent lines, are high yielding and stay lush green on the fields till the harvest, said HC Lohitashwa, a corn breeder. MAH 14-138, which has been developed over eight years and been approved for commercial release this year, is moderately resistant to turcicum leaf blight.

BOTH HYBRIDS SUITABLE

MAH 15-84, which is in the pipeline and likely to be approved for release next year, is resistant to turcicum leaf blight, fusarium stalk rot and polysora rust.

These hybrids are suitable for both irrigated and dryland farming. MAH 15-84, which has a crop cycle of 115-120 days, yields about 40-42 quintals per acre.

The MAH 14-138 yields about 35-38 quintals per acre and has crop duration of 120-135 days.

Normally the dried corn stalks are used as fodder. In the new hybrids, since the plants remain green after harvest, cattle find it easy to digest and relish it like paddy straw or ragi straw, he said.

Maize acreage is on the rise in India with farmers bringing more area under cultivation. Over the past two decades, area under maize cultivation has risen from about 6 million ha to about 10 million ha, while production has increased from around 20 million tonnes (mt) to 32 mt.
