5G to push smartphone demand: Report

REUTERS

Bangalore, December 29

INDIA'S 5G SMARTPHONE shipments will exceed that of 4G by the end of next year, driven by the mass adoption of the high-speed network and the rise in the sales of handsets in the lower-price bands, market research firm Counterpoint said on Thursday.

Though India's overall smartphone shipments are estimated to see a yearly decline this year due to component supply issues and macroeconomic factors, 5G will continue to push smartphone demand in 2023 as well, Counterpoint added.

5G data speed in India is expected to be about 10 times faster than that of 4G, with the network seen as vital for emerging technologies like self-driving cars and artificial intelligence.

5G handset share in the lower-price band (less than ₹20,000) is expected to surge to 30% in 2023 from 4% last year, Counterpoint said.

Reliance Jio is working with Alphabet's Google to launch a budget 5G smartphone after it emerged as the biggest spender in the country's $19-billion 5G spectrum auction in August.

Cumulative 5G smartphone shipments will cross the 100-million mark in the second quarter of 2023 and surpass 4G smartphone shipments by the end of next year, according to Counterpoint.

The analysis firm expects limitations like component supply shortages, inflation, geopolitical conflicts and limited availability of 5G networks to ease by the end of 2023, leading to the mass adoption of 5G.

Meanwhile, the government is looking to push Apple, Samsung and other mobile phone makers to prioritise rolling out software upgrades to support 5G in the country as many models are not ready for the recently launched high-speed service, Reuters reported.

Foldable smartphones: Xiaomi, Motorola & Honor eye market outside China in 2023

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, December 29

THE COMPETITION IN the foldable smartphone market globally is set to intensify in 2023 with brands like Xiaomi, Motorola and Honor looking to sell such ultra-premium smartphones outside the China market, according to a report by Counterpoint Research.

While Samsung will continue to dominate the foldable smartphone market, increased competition is expected to reduce the prices of such premium smartphones next year. Companies like Huawei, Oppo and Vivo will also launch new foldable devices.

In 2023, global foldable smartphone shipments are expected to grow 52% year-on-year to 22.7 million units. "The numbers are tiny when put in the context of the broader market, but looking at the ever-important ultra-premium segment ($1,000 and above), we're seeing foldable start to take hold," said Tarun Pathak, director, Counterpoint's global smartphone practice. "In that category (ultra-premium), foldable hit double-digit shipment shares this year, and we expect it to rise above 20% in 2023."

Largely, higher prices are a major obstacle in the popularisation of foldable devices and with increase in competition the prices will drop, analysts said. Mostly, the competition will be in the China and western Europe foldable markets next year.

Severe penalties under data Bill not appropriate, say tech firms

FE BUREAU
New Delhi, December 29

THE BROADBAND INDIA Forum (BIF), which represents big technology companies, on Thursday said the severe penalties proposed by the government under the data protection Bill are not appropriate. The penalty caps, however, should be raised in a phase-wise manner in line with the development of the country's compliance and enforcement landscape, it added.

The comments from the representatives of companies like Google, Amazon and Meta comes amid an ongoing public consultation process on the draft digital personal data protection Bill that lays the rights and duties of the citizen and obligations for data fiduciaries to use collected personal data lawfully.

Currently, the quantum of maximum penalty on a data fiduciary in case of breach of the provisions under the Bill is proposed at ₹500 crore. Besides, the government has time and again said the data protection board will decide the penalties based on the extent of data breach and the fine of ₹500 crore might get multiplied by the number of persons affected by the breach.

The quantum of maximum penalty on a data fiduciary in case of breach of the provisions under the Bill is proposed at ₹500 crore

"Since this is India's first attempt at a comprehensive data protection law, severe penalties would not be appropriate. The draft Bill should further identify a more graded penalty structure which is commensurate with the degree of harm that a violation or non-compliance may invite," BIF said in a statement.

In comparison to countries like Malaysia and Thailand, which are also in process of implementing a data protection law, the magnitude of financial penalties in India is greater, it added.

Among other things, the forum has urged the government to provide a sufficient time to comply with the provisions of the law after its implementation. Some provisions such as cross-border data flow, consent seeking, language options to data principals etc would require the companies to make changes to their business processes.

In a meeting with stakeholders on the Bill, minister of state for IT and electronics Rajeev Chandrasekhar had said that the government will give enough transition time to companies to comply with the new legislation.

BIF has also raised concerns over the definition of personal data in the Bill and asked for its simplification so that data fiduciary can give an itemised notice to the data principal containing a description of personal data sought to be collected and the purpose of processing of such data.
