COPENHAGEN: An appeals court in Denmark increased the fine imposed on a newspaper for violating copyright of Copenhagen's The Little Mermaid statue by publishing a cartoon depicting the bronze landmark as a zombie and a photo of it with a facemask. The court fined the newspaper 285,000 kroner in 2020. The appeals court on Wednesday raised the fine to 300,000 kroner (USD 46,000).

Johnson says coronavirus rules including self-isolation set to go from this month-end

LONDON

Boris Johnson on Wednesday said that all coronavirus restrictions will be axed from this month-end.

The UK Prime Minister said he would lay out the full strategy after the half-term recess on February 21, but said as long as 'encouraging' trends continue, restrictions can go in England four weeks earlier than the current expiry date of March 24. Johnson announced ending the rules - including the legal requirement for those who test positive to self-isolate. Covid cases have been easing after the Omicron surge and deaths have remained far below the fears of many experts.

The Plan B requirements for people to work from home where possible was dropped last month, along with most face mask rules and compulsory Covid passes.

The country has been subject to virtually unprecedented peacetime restrictions since early 2020.

However, it is far from clear that Scotland and Wales will follow suit - as the SNP's Nicola Sturgeon and Labour's Mark Drakeford have been far more cautious.

Night revellers celebrate on the dance floor at KB nightclub in Malmoe, Sweden, after midnight on Wednesday, when Sweden lifted restrictions amid the novel coronavirus pandemic.

AGENCIES / Geneva

The World Health Organisation says coronavirus case counts fell 17 per cent worldwide over the last week compared to the previous week, including a 50 per cent drop in the United States, while deaths globally declined 7 per cent.

The weekly epidemiological report from the UN health agency, released late Tuesday, shows that the Omicron variant is increasingly dominant - making up nearly 97 per cent of all cases tallied by the international virus-tracking platform known as GISAID. Just over 3 per cent were of the delta variant.

"The prevalence of the Omicron variant has increased globally and is now detected in almost all countries," WHO said.

However, many of the countries which reported an early rise in the number of cases due to the Omicron variant have now reported a decline in the total number of new cases since the beginning of January 2022."

All told, WHO reported more than 19 million new cases of Covid and under 68,000 new deaths during the week from January 31 to February 6. As with all such tallies, experts say such figures are believed to greatly underestimate the real toll.

Case counts fell in each of WHO's six regions except its eastern Mediterranean zone, which reported a 36 per cent jump, notably with increases in Afghanistan, Iran and Jordan.

Denmark has one of the world's highest Covid cases per capita, and hospitalisations have reached an all-time high. But the government has dropped all restrictions, including a mask mandate in closed spaces and on public transportation. It may seem counterintuitive to lift restrictions, but the country's authorities say that deaths and hospitalisations are rising much more slowly than Covid cases, and that the number of patients in ICUs is at its lowest level in months. The return to "normal" has been welcomed by Danes. On a ferry ride last week to Aarhus, Denmark's second largest city, The New York Times reporter said only a handful of passengers were wearing masks

The end of restrictions in Denmark could herald a future in which rich countries can afford "living with the virus," as long as they have high vaccination rates, huge testing capacities and strong health data infra. In Denmark, 81 percent of the population has been fully vaccinated, and 62 percent have received a booster.

Quotable: "We promised people that as soon as we could, we would open up," Denmark's health minister, Magnus Heunicke, said. "But if there's a new variant, if we learn that vaccines aren't as effective, we will not hesitate to do what's necessary. That's the contract."

DASHBOARD

- Number of Covid cases globally has surpassed 400 mn, according to Johns Hopkins University. The global case tally stands at 400,487,672. The death toll amounts to 5,762,582.
- More US states are planning to ease mask mandates for schools and indoor public settings amid drop in recent surge of Covid infections
- Canadian province to start phasing out Covid restrictive measures

Pakistan's senior ministers waded into the ongoing hijab row in Karnataka, with Foreign Minister Shah Mahmood Qureshi on Wednesday saying that depriving Muslim girls of education is a grave violation of fundamental human rights.

The hijab controversy first erupted in January at a government PU College in Udupi, where six students who attended classes wearing headscarf in violation of the stipulated dress code were asked to leave the campus, has spread to different parts of the state with Hindu students too responding by turning up in saffron shawls. Such saffron-clad students are also being barred from entering classes. "Depriving Muslim girls of an education is a grave violation of fundamental human rights. To deny anyone this fundamental right & terrorise them for wearing a hijab is absolutely oppressive. World must realise this is part of Indian state plan of ghettoisation of Muslims," Qureshi tweeted.
