Zen Technologies Protects Core IP – A Competing Patent Revoked in Landmark Win

Zen Technologies Limited (“Zen”) has successfully safeguarded its pre-existing intellectual property (IP) by securing the revocation of a subsequently granted Indian patent filed under a similar category by individuals associated with MAG5 Innovations Private Limited.

The patent, originally granted in April 2023, was revoked on August 06, 2025, following a post-grant opposition initiated by Zen in October 2023.

This outcome reaffirms Zen’s strong intellectual property position and its ongoing commitment to safeguarding the company’s innovation-led advancements in combat training simulation technology.

Commenting on the development, a spokesperson from Zen’s Intellectual Property team said, “This decision is a significant affirmation of Zen’s pioneering work in simulation-based defence training. We remain dedicated to protecting our proprietary technologies that are central to our leadership in this domain.”

The revocation reinforces Zen’s stature as an IP-rich defence technology company and provides continued confidence to shareholders and stakeholders in its long-term innovation roadmap and patent-backed product portfolio.
