AURIONPRO CONGRATULATES VIRGIN MEDIA, WINNER OF "BEST IDENTITY AND ACCESS MANAGEMENT PROJECT" AT THE EUROPEAN IDENTITY & CLOUD CONFERENCE

June 4, 2013 – London, U.K. (Marketwire)

Aurionpro would like to congratulate the team at Virgin Media for winning the award for Best Identity and Access Management (IAM) Project at the recent European Identity & Cloud Conference in Munich.

Virgin Media garnered the award for the implementation of highly polished access control mechanisms with IAM technologies for the WiFi network of the London Underground metro system. The solution, based on Oracle's Virtual Directory and Entitlements Server products, went live on time and ahead of the immovable deadline of the 2012 Olympic Games. At peak loads, it serviced more than 84,000 simultaneous users across the Underground network.

For the team at Aurionpro, it was an honor to collaborate with Virgin Media on this innovative and historic project, and we are delighted to see them receive well-deserved recognition for their vision and expertise.

About the European Identity Awards

The European Identity Awards honor projects that promote the awareness for and business value of professional Identity Management and Cloud Security. Numerous projects were nominated by vendors and end-user companies during the last 12 months, and winners were chosen by KuppingerCole analysts as the most outstanding examples of applications and ideas in the areas of IAM, GRC, and Cloud security.
