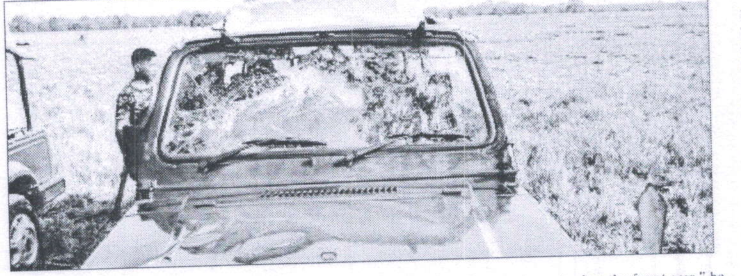
Nagaon DFO attacked, vehicle damaged by encroachers



A CORRESPONDENT

NAGAON, Jan 3: A group of encroachers today attacked Jitendar Kumar, District Forest Officer (Wildlife), Nagaon at Lathimari under Burhachapari Wildlife Sanctuary and damaged his official vehicle while carrying out an eviction drive.

According to sources, the DFO along with his staff went to Burhachapori Wildlife Sanctuary early morning and immediately a group of agitated encroachers numbering 150 attacked his official vehicle with sharp weapons. Two of his staff sustained injuries in the attack and they were later hospitalized. The DFO, however, escaped unhurt in the attack.

Later, a team of Juria Police station arrived at the spot and rescued the DFO and his staff.

Talking to this correspondent, Kumar said that he had gone to the spot to evict the encroachers as per the directive of the State Government. "The people have been encroaching forest land and they were asked several occasions to clear the forest area," he said, adding that an FIR will be lodged in this regard. He also asserted the eviction drive would continue.

It is learnt that several areas of forest land of Nagaon are now in the grip of encroachers, and accordingly the district Forest department has chalked out a strategy to clear the land.

CORRESPONDENT

DOOMDOOMA , Jan 3 : A skill development training centre under Assam Skill Development Mission (ASDM) was inaugurated today at the premises of Shiva Technical Enterprise situated at Rupai Siding here. New research centre on birds inaugurated

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

JORHAT, Jan 3: Padmashree Jadav Payeng, who is also known as Forest Man of India, inaugurated a centre named as Assam Centre for Ornithological Research at Rongdoi Dolouguri near Nimatighat on the outskirts here yesterday.

The opening of the centre near the Brahmaputra bank - a hotspot of local and migratory avian species in the wetlands - is a joint initiative of two ornithophiles – Suryya Kumar Chetia, Assistant Professor, Assam Women's University and Dipjyoti Saikia, a journalist. The centre is aimed at carrying out systematic studies on birds and to undertake steps for conservation of the winged creatures. The centre proposes to bring out an annual online magazine in this regard.

Speaking on the occasion, Payeng while praising the initiative said that biologists, local and foreign tourists were drawn to the said area due to the presence of large number of avian species.

He said that the centre could play a big role in generating awareness among the local people for conservation of birds that are integral part of the ecosystem.

Payeng further said that nature and its conservation should be included in the school curriculum so that children learn to nurture and love wildlife and trees.

Davinder Suman, Divisional Forest Officer (Jorhat), who was the chief guest at the function, said that conservation of wildlife could not be successful without the cooperation of the local inhabitants.

Retired DFO Gunin Saikia, an ardent bird lover, who presided over the function, in his address, said that balance among the elements of nature was necessary for a healthy ecosystem but expanding human activities had destroyed the habitat of many wild animals and pushed them to the verge of extinction. Suryya Kumar Chetia and Dipjyoti Saikia, while addressing the gathering, spoke about the various plans and activities the centre proposes to initiate.

More households to be covered under Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana

STAFF CORRESPONDENT

DIBRUGARH, Jan 3: In consonance with the Centre's effort to provide LPG connections to every BPL household under the Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana (PMUY), the district here is also determined to bring every household under the extended PMUY coverage, said Kaushik Pratim Sarma, the District Nodal Officer of Indian Oil Corporation Limited.

Sarma while addressing newsmen here said that as many as 81435 numbers of PMUY connections were issued in the district as against a target of 67454 on the basis of Socio Economic Caste Census list and seven identified categories such as SC/STs, beneficiaries of Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana (PMAY) (Gramin), Antyodaya Anna Yojana (AAY), Forest Dwellers, Most Backward Classes, Tea & ex-Tea Garden tribes and people residing in islands. Buoyed with the achievement, Sarma said that the district has also launched the expanded Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana – 2 as per the recent Cabinet's decision to provide LPG connections to revised 8 crore households in the country following achievement of 6 crore household as on January 2, 2019 as against the target of 5 crore household by March 31, 2019.

Under the expanded Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana – 2, free LPG connections will be issued to poor families, who were not getting considered earlier on account of their names not appearing either in Socio Economic Caste Census list or the seven identified aforesaid categories. Sarma explained the modalities for issuing connections under the expanded Pradhan Mantri Ujjwala Yojana – 2 like submitting proof of identity and proof of address, saving bank account details, copy of ration card and 14-point declaration for establishing 'poor' status among others.

AKRSU calls Assam bandh on Jan 8

CORRESPONDENT

BONGAIGAON, Jan 3: All Koch Rajbongshi Students' Union (AKRSU) and its sister groups have called a 12-hour Assam bandh on January 8 in protest against the Centre's alleged dilly-dallying tactic for granting 'Kamatapur State' and tribal status to the Koch Rajbonshi community.

Arun Ray and Gokul Barman, president and general secretary of the students' body respectively said that despite repeated pleas and a series of agitational programmes, Centre has failed to solve their demands. "We have no option but to go for an agitation," the leaders said.

The students' body and its wings – Chilarai Sena and All Koch Rajbongshi Mahila Samiti – will burn the effigies of Prime Minister, Home Minister and Chief Minister in all the district headquarters tomorrow protesting the same, the leaders said.

"If these protests fail to evoke any positive response from the Union Government, then will go for a massive agitation," the leaders threaten. They also alleged that Kamatapur State is a long-pending demand and the Centre should take the matter seriously.
