NRL posts 'highest ever' revenue in FY19, net profit down the 130 KM Indo-Bangla Friendship Pipeline (IBFPL) for transporting products from Siliguri Marketing Terminal to Bangladesh, was held in September 2018 in the presence of Prime Ministers of India and Bangladesh through video conferencing. Assiduous efforts to establish the first bamboo biomass based 2G Bio Refinery Plant in the country was brought to realisation with the formation of the joint venture company, 'Assam Bio-Refinery Pvt. Ltd' in June 2018.

Entering the upstream business

NRL also took its first steps in the Upstream business of exploration and production under Open Acreage Licensing Policy (OALP) / Discovered Small Field (DSF) rounds. After due diligence, the company is now in the process of acquiring 20% Participatory Interest (PI) in Namrup Block from M/s Oil India Limited for which farm out agreement has already been signed.

CSR

Apart from the earmarked programmes, NRL adopted several novel projects during the year. Important among them is the adoption of the relatively backward Darrang district in Assam as an aspirational district and taking up projects for its holistic development, development of neighbouring village of Lakhipur as model village, handing over of waste handling equipment to municipalities and town committees across Assam taking forward the Swachha Bharat Mission of Govt. of India.

UNSC begins meeting on India revoking special status to J& K over the tense situation between India and Pakistan, Polyanskiy said, "we are very much concerned. We hope to avoid it. Asked if the Council can play a useful role, he replied, "We first need to discuss and then we'll see."

Replying to another question, he said, "sometimes it is better not to touch upon such an issue. It's a bilateral issue," the Russian diplomat said.

It is significant that the discussions are not being held at the horse-shoe table in the Security Council Chamber, which is a more formal format for meetings.

In a setback to Pakistan's intentions, the consultations on its letter to the Council are closed and informal and there will unlikely be a formal pronouncement after the meeting, diplomatic sources said.

In the letter to the UNSC, Pakistan had requested that its representative be allowed to participate in the meeting, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the Charter of the United Nations and rule 37 of the provisional rules of procedure of the Security Council.

But Pakistan's request was not allowed, the sources said.

According to UN records, the last time "the Security Council addressed the dispute between India and Pakistan over the territories of Jammu and Kashmir" under agenda item 'The India-Pakistan question' was in 1965.

The Council's schedule said "Security Council consultations (closed) India/Pakistan", listed for 10 am.

Sources said since it is a consultation, any outcome is not formal pronouncement.

A UN diplomat had told PTI that China had asked for closed consultations on the Security Council agenda item 'India Pakistan Question'.

SC anguished over filing of defective petitions on Art 370 also noted that it was hearing the petition on Article 370 by breaking the combination of judges which was hearing the sensitive Ayodhya matter.

During the hearing, advocate Shakil Sabeer said he was a resident of Jammu and Kashmir and had filed the petition against the scrapping of Article 370 and the creation of union territories of J-K and Ladakh.

He said he had cured the defects but the petition was not listed.

The bench enquired from the apex court registry and found that the defects were cured only on Wednesday evening.

The bench said the defects were cured on Wednesday evening and Thursday was a holiday. Then how did he expect the listing of his petition on Friday?

"Why did you file a defective petition in the matter of this importance," an anguished bench asked the lawyer.

"You file a defective petition and trouble my officers," the CJJ said.

The bench asked the lawyer if he knows how many petitions on the J-K issue are in the apex court and are under defects?

The bench told him that six petitions have been filed on the issue.

"In the matter of this seriousness, people are filing petitions with defect," the bench said.

The National Conference, a political party in Jammu and Kashmir, has also filed a petition posing legal challenges in the apex court to the changes made in the constitutional status of J-K, contending that these have taken away rights of its citizens without their mandate.

Arguing that the legislation approved by Parliament and orders issued by the President subsequently were "un-constitutional", the petition prayed for these to be declared as "void and inoperative".

The petition has been filed by Mohammad Akbar Lone and Justice (rt) Hasnain Masoodi, both Lok Sabha members belonging to the NC.

Lone is a former speaker of the Jammu and Kashmir Assembly and Masoodi a retired judge of the Jammu and Kashmir High Court, who ruled in 2015 that Article 370 was a permanent feature of the Constitution.

Some other individuals have also filed a petition in the Supreme Court but they were not listed for hearing on Friday.

Phone lines in Kashmir to be restored, schools...

Over the weekend, you will have most of these lines functional."

Twelve districts in Jammu and Kashmir out of 22 were functioning normally while there was limited night-time restrictions only in five districts.

"After today's Friday prayers, immediate reports suggest that things have gone off quite peacefully right throughout the state," he said. Earlier in the morning in the national capital, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said in the Supreme Court that people should trust the security forces deployed in Jammu and Kashmir and authorities are taking stock of situation on day-to-day basis.

He told the court, hearing a petition by Kashmir Times Executive Editor Anuradha Bhasin, that some time should be given to bring normalcy in the region.

Bhasin had sought removal of restrictions imposed on working of journalists in the state after scrapping of provisions of Article 370 and the restoration of all modes of communication, including mobile, internet and landline services, throughout the state.

The UN Security Council is meeting on Friday evening to discuss India revoking Jammu and Kashmir's special status.

Addressing the media in the Valley's principal city, the Jammu and Kashmir chief secretary said, "We have prevented any loss of human life despite concerted efforts by terrorist organisations, radical groups and continuing efforts by Pakistan to destabilise the situation."

As restrictions on the movement of people are removed area by area, movement of public transport will be allowed in these areas too, the senior official said.

"It is expected that over the next few days as the restrictions get eased, life in Jammu and Kashmir will become completely normal. This is already visible on the roads as the roads are full of regular traffic and we expect to an increase in the coming days," he said.

Village trying to preserve century-old art

IMPHAL, AUG 16: Ningel, a small hamlet in the foot-hills of Imphal valley, is the only village left in Manipur which is struggling to preserve the over three-century-old art of making circular salt slabs.

Despite the lure of higher-income generating occupations, availability of packaged iodized salt and the disappearance of salt wells in neighbouring villages, people like Maibum Mutum works tirelessly throughout the day to make the circular salt slabs.

Inhabited by less than 1,000 people, Ningel has three salt-wells of which two were constructed in the not-so- distant past.

"Salt is extracted from nearby salt wells after the presence of salt springs is confirmed when subtle vapours are found hovering from potential sites. A shaft is sunk down to the spring by the locals to extract the water from which salt is made," Mutum said.

These salt wells are 45 feet in depth and six feet in diameter, said 51-year-old Mutum.

SHILLONG, AUG 16: Anti-influx NGOs have slammed the state government for delaying the constitution of the district task forces (DTFs) as mandated by the Meghalaya Residents Safety and Security Act (MRSSA), 2016 to check influx and illegal immigration into the state.

A joint delegation of the Khasi Students' Union (KSU), Federation of Khasi Jaintia and Garo People (FKJGP) and Hyniewtrep National Youth Front (HNYF) on Friday also met the deputy commissioner of East Khasi Hills Matsiewdor W Nongbri to conduct a follow up on the matter.

The three pressure groups are part of the 13 NGOs who are demanding the immediate implementation of the comprehensive mechanisms which include the setting up of the entry-exit points to address the long pending issue.

After the meeting, KSU chief Lam-bok Starwell Mangar told reporters that the DTFs have so far been constituted only in East Khasi Hills and South West Khasi Hills, which are also yet to function on ground that they are yet to be provided with the rules.

He said the pressure groups have

viewed the matter as a serious concern since DTFs in other districts are yet to be constituted despite the increased inflow of influx into the government secretariat is not just a stock room to keep important documents, acts and rules, without implementing them."

The KSU leader said the role of DTFs is to maintain the database of all the tenants residing in their respective jurisdictions adding this will help in detecting illegal entry of outsiders or anti-social elements into the state.

"However, it is unfortunate that there is complete lack of sincerity on the part of the state government to address the issue," he added.

Under the law, persons occupying rented houses in the state should furnish requisite documents like residential certificate and electors photo identity card within a stipulated period to the police station and the local authorities.

FKJGP president Wellbirth Rani said there has been undue delay in which the government almost took more than 2 years to start the setting up of the entry point at Umling in Ri Bhoi District and not in all the locations that have been identified.

Substantive issues on Naga political problem resolved: Guv

KOIHMA, AUG 16: Nagaland Governor R N Ravi said on Friday that all substantive issues between negotiators and the Centre on the Naga political problem have been resolved and assured people that Article 371(A) of the Constitution will not be repealed.

Ravi, who was earlier the interlocutor for the Naga peace talks, said Prime Minister Narendra Modi had told him before he joined as governor that the Naga peace process must be concluded within three months.

Chief Minister Neiphiu Rio expressed hope that the vexed issue would be settled soon with Ravi taking over as the governor of Nagaland.

Ravi, who assumed office on August 1, quoted the prime minister as saying, "Now we must conclude the peace process... Having resolved all the issues we must do it within three months time."

"We need to do it because the status quo as it stands today is unbearable to the Naga people," the governor said.

Referring to the fear in the people on withdrawal of Article 371(A), which gives certain special rights to some Northeast states, he said it is a solemn commitment of the Government of India to the Nagas and not impermanent as Article 370.

He said there is no similarity between articles 370 and 371(A), which is a product of over three years of negotiation between the people of Nagaland and the Centre. The governor said any attempt to draw a parallel between the two articles is either due to misunderstanding, or is mischievous.

"Even in our negotiations that we are at today, we are trying to bring something more than what 371(A) says and there is no question of diluting it, but to strengthen it," he told a gathering of tribal bodies, civil societies, citizens and legislators of the state at a civic reception by the state in his honour.

On the Naga peace process, he said, "All the substantive issues have been resolved and there is nothing left. We (Naga negotiators and the Centre) have agreed that with the Centre recognizing the unique history of the Nagas, the settlement is on the basis of power sharing and peaceful coexistence."

"We know the sentiments in the neighbouring states. We are not opposed to integration of Naga areas, in fact we have considered and accepted it happily," he added.

"It is the legitimate right of the Naga people to pursue and achieve integration through democratic political process," he said.

Ravi said the rest of the country is moving forward at a fast pace and has become the hub of startups and favourite destination for global investment. But the people of Nagaland are craving for basic necessities like motorable roads, assured power supply, education, access to health care and decent employment for youths.

"It saddens me more as Nagaland is richer in natural resources than many parts of the country and its youths are more talented than many others," he said.

He said attempts are being made to resolve the Naga political issue for the last 22 years but after Modi came to power, those involved in the peace process reviewed the way talks were being conducted.

It was found that all stakeholders -- Naga groups, tribal bodies, legislators, citizens and civil society organisations -- were not included in the process, he added.

The Naga political issue belongs to the Naga people and no organisation has any "exclusive franchise over it", Ravi said.

"A few symbolic issues are left," he said, adding "options have been offered and Naga negotiators have been asked to explore the options rather than remaining rigid".
