BSNL plan for uncovered areas promises savings of ₹6,000 cr

BSNL says its cost is ₹78.23 lakh per tower as against the DoT's finalised cost of ₹1.8 crore per tower

RISHI RANJAN KALA
New Delhi, August 15

TELECOM SECRETARY ARUNA Sundararam has directed the Universal Services Obligation Fund (USOF) to prepare a new project report based on the BSNL's proposal for providing mobile connectivity in uncovered villages by setting up telecom towers in Left Wing Extremism (LWE)-affected areas and Meghalaya.

BSNL had made a proposal to the DoT that it could set up telecom towers and provide mobile connectivity in both these regions at half the cost compared to what the DoT's own plan would have entailed. The operator has said its cost is around ₹78.23 lakh per tower as against the DoT's finalised cost of ₹1.8 crore per tower, resulting in total savings of ₹6,000 crore for the government.

The Department of Telecommunications (DoT) has cleared projects for setting up 4,072 telecom towers in LWE-affected areas at a cost of around ₹7,330 crore and a comprehensive telecom development plan for Meghalaya at a cost of ₹3,911 crore. Both the projects were approved by the Cabinet in May. The technology to be used is 2G and 4G. The USOF is funding the agency.

Telecom secretary has now directed USOF to prepare a new detailed project report (DPR) for LWE and Meghalaya projects on the basis of revised lower estimates presented by BSNL, as they would bring down the total project cost to less than half and the government will save more than ₹6,000 crore, a senior government official explained.

The DoT will provide mobile connectivity in LWE-affected areas in 96 districts across 10 states. The second generation (2G) and 4G technology will be deployed in this second phase of the project. In the first phase, around 2,355 telecom towers providing mobile services using the 2G technology were set up at a cost of ₹4,060 crore.

Under the comprehensive Northeast Development Plan, the government aims to provide mobile connectivity in around 8,621 villages and along national highways spread across the seven hill states through 7,000 telecom towers.

Sebi plans to tighten disclosure norms for loan default

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
New Delhi, August 15

MARKETS REGULATOR SEBI is looking to stipulate a framework for timely and detailed disclosures of loan defaults by listed entities to enhance transparency.

Several companies and rating agencies have come under the regulatory scanner for failing to make timely disclosure about the loan default risks. Tightening of the disclosure norms is aimed at helping banks to recognise their stressed assets as non-performing more uniformly and enhance transparency in the securities market. "Sebi aims at examining stipulation of timely and detailed disclosures pertaining to defaults on debt obligations by listed entities to enhance transparency," the regulator said in its annual report. In March, Sebi chief Ajay Tyagi said the decision on proposed norms necessitating listed companies to make urgent disclosures about major loan defaults lies with the regulator's board.

Constitutional Courts alive to fostering liberalization and privatisation: CJI at ASSOCHAM Kalam Memorial lecture

The Courts and the Judiciary can no longer be oblivious of economic globalization which calls for harmonization of commercial laws across borders. The Courts will have to come out of their jurisdictional compartments.

"Global commercial activity is on the rise like never before and this rise calls for a directly proportional progress in all related fields including law and the judicial system," said Hon'ble Dipak Misra, the Chief Justice of India. He was speaking on 'Role of Judiciary in the Era of Globalization' at the 1st Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Memorial Lecture organized by ASSOCHAM.

While assessing the importance of judiciary's role in the wake of globalization he added, "The other aspects of globalization include exchange and transfer of ideas, cultures and practices."

Extolling the contribution of the 'People's President' Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam he said, "Dr. Kalam was not only the People's President but also the most revered son of the Indian soil. He stands out as an example that how solely by hard work and determination one can rise in life."

"Globalization has resulted in changing the configurations of the global economy," he said, "which in turn, requires the judicial arm of the State to keep pace with the new developments in international commercial activities which come under the umbrella of globalization." He also made a strong case for inter-governmental organizations like UNCITRAL for their role in harmonizing the International Trade Law. "Now, it is for the institutions of the State, including the judiciary, to take over and act as the facilitators for paving a smooth path for international commercial transactions and thereby helping in achieving the desired outcomes of globalization," he added.

Highlighting the pro-active approach of the court he said, "Over the last few years, the Supreme Court has shifted its stance and has adopted a pro-arbitration approach. The judiciary has very keenly and determinedly kept a watch on the practice of international arbitration in the country and continues to perform the role of a guardian and promoter of speedy, neutral and effective arbitration system and has refrained from adorning the role of an interventionist."

He also spoke about the role of the Courts in the era of globalization. "The Courts, in their role as adjudicators, have employed the principles of liberalization and the consequent global reach of the digital economy will require development of new legal rules at the national and international levels and fine-tuning of existing judicial systems for commercial disputes.

fairness, legality and, above all, constitutional permissibility for testing the propriety and validity of economic policies and actions of the government which have a taste of globalization in them. The courts, while discharging their adjudicatory functions, have interpreted the legal provisions keeping in view the concept of globalization."

He also said that, "the Constitutional Courts of India, through their rulings, have endeavoured to create favourable conditions in India for business entities by not only inducing them to set up their businesses in India but also to seamlessly transact with Indian consumers. Such an approach by the Courts is aimed to derive maximum benefits of globalization and I am sure that we continue to stand by that great mission even today. It was with this mindset and endeavour of celebrating the Leaders of the Country, that we decided to initiate the Dr. A. P. J. Abdul Kalam Memorial Lecture Series.

this approach would continue in the times to come." "I must inform you that the Indian Judiciary is totally committed towards achieving this objective. We are consciously investing in innovative strategies to expedite commercial dispute resolution mechanism," he reiterated.
