'Baby food industry violated laws on breast milk substitute'

New Delhi, Dec 2

The baby food industry has violated the Infant Milk Substitutes, Sterilised, and Malted Milk Act (IMSA) that bans promotion of breast milk substitutes at least 54 times between 2008 and 2016, according to an industry watchdog.

The survey conducted by Proactive Media Support for Infant Mothers, a Facebook group with more than 25,000 members, showed that more than half of the 560 mothers who shared their personal experiences were given artificial baby milk. Out of those 250 women given without their knowledge, it was found that children were given the formula without the knowledge of their mother.

Any kind of promotion of baby foods and feeding bottles for children aged up to 2 years, including advertisements in advertisement of sales, pecuniary benefits to doctors or their associates.

Million containers of 400 gms each, which are almost equal to half of a kg, are being sold in the unbranded form of formula in the industry in 2016. This figure will be 72.3 million 'breast'.

'Baby food industry violated laws on breast milk substitute'

New Delhi, Dec 2

THE baby food industry has violated the Infant Milk Substitutes, Breast Feeding and Nursing Mothers' Milk Act (IMSBF) that bans promotion of breast-milk substitutes at least 54 times between 2006 and 2016, according to a study by WHO.

The survey conducted by Breastfeeding Support for India Mothers, a Facebook group with more than 29,000 members, showed that more than half of the 950 mothers who delivered in private hospitals were given artificial baby milk out of those 2 and were given without their knowledge. It also found that children were given the formula without the knowledge of their mother.

Any kind of promotion for baby foods and feeding bottles for children aged up to 2 years, including advertisements in lieu of sales, particularly benefits to doctors or their associates including sponsorship is banned under the IMSBF. "Aggressive marketing by baby food companies and sponsorship contribute to increased use of formula at the time of birth and later by undermining breastfeeding and even after should be made to curb such invasive practices," Dr. Anand Gupta, Central Coordinator, BPNI and Regional Coordinator, IBBFAN Asia said.

"Despite the directives issued by the government of India, the baby food manufacturers are still violating the IMSBF," Gupta said. According to Euro monitor report, 10,847 tonnes of standard infant formula 900 month's age group was sold in India in 2012, which is 10,847,000 kg of milk powder. "Converting this into containers of 400 grams, it means India sells about 27 million containers of 900 gms each year, almost equivalent to the population of India," Gupta said. In 2012, this figure was 26.7 million, he said.

'Baby food industry violated laws on breast milk substitute'

New Delhi, Dec 7

THE baby food industry has violated the Infant Milk Substitutes, Breast Feeding and Nursing Code, 1991 (IMSC), that bans promotion of breast milk substitutes at least 14 times between 2009 and 2016, according to a study by a doctor.

The survey conducted by Breastfeeding Support for Indian Mothers (B-SIM) group with more than 20,000 members, showed that more than half of the 66 mothers who delivered at private hospitals were given artificial baby milk. Out of these 2,397 were given without their knowledge. It also found that children were given the formula without the knowledge of their mothers.

Any kind of promotion for baby foods and feeding bottles for children over age 2 years, including advertisements in discount of sales, pecuniary benefits to doctors or their associations including sponsorship of a channel under the IMSC Act. "Aggressive marketing by baby food companies and sponsorship contribute to increased use of formula at the time of birth and later by undermining breastfeeding and every effort should be made to make sure no infant is positioned," Dr. Aruna Gupta, Central Coordinator, B-SIM and Regional Coordinator, IFFAN, said.

Despite the directives issued by the government of India, the baby food manufacturing companies are still violating the IMSC. According to a report, 19,447 tonnes of standard infant formula (6 months age group) was sold in India in 2012, which is 10,947,000 kg of milk powder. "Considering this, manufacturing of 400 crums, it means India sells about 27

New Delhi, Dec 2

The baby food industry has violated the Infant Milk Substitutes, Act (IMS) that bans promotion of breastmilk substitutes at least 54 times between 2008 and 2016, according to an industry watchdog.

The survey conducted by Breastfeeding Support for Indian Mothers, a Facebook group with more than 29,000 members, showed that more than half of the 96 mothers who delivered in private hospitals were given artificial baby milk. Out of these 27 were given without their knowledge. It also found that children were given the formula without the knowledge of their mother.

Any kind of promotion for baby foods and feeding bottles for children aged up to 3 years, including advertisements in the form of sales, pamphlets, benefits to doctors or their associates including sponsorship labelled under the IMS Act. Aggressive marketing by baby food companies and sponsorship contribute to increased use of formula at the time of birth and later by undermining breastfeeding and every effort should be made to curb such aggressive promotion. Dr. Arun Gupta, Central Coordinator, IPWNI and Regional Coordinator, IBFAN Asia said.

Despite the directives issued by the government of India, the baby food manufacturing baby companies are still violating the IMS Act. Gupta said. According to Bureau monitor report, 19,847 tonnes of standard infant formula (0-6 months age group) was sold in India in 2012, which is 10,847 '00 kg of milk powder. Extrapolating this into containers of 400 grams, it means India sells about 27

Million containers of 400 gms each, almost equal to the has been going by the estimated growth of formula industry in 2012, this figure will be 32.7 million, he said. PTI

'Baby food industry violated laws on breast milk substitute'

New Delhi, Dec 2

THE baby food industry has violated the Infant Milk Substitutes, Breastfeeding Promotion and Control Bill, 2016, according to a report by the Food Safety and Drug Administration (FSDA).

The survey conducted by the Food Safety and Drug Administration (FSDA) with more than 200 members, showed that more than half of the 950 mothers who delivered in private hospitals were given artificial baby milk. Out of these, 230 were given without their knowledge. It also found that children were given the formula without the knowledge of their mothers.

Any kind of promotion for baby foods and feeding bottles for children aged up to 2 years, including advertisements, dissemination of sales, promotional benefits to doctors or their associations including sponsorship is banned under the IMS Act. "Aggressive marketing by baby food companies and sponsorship contribute to increased use of formula at the time of birth and later by undermining breastfeeding and every effort should be made to curb such invasive promotion," Dr Arun Gupta, Central Coordinator, BPNP and National Coordinator, IHRAN Asia said.

"Despite the directives issued by the government of India, the baby food manufacturers have been violating the IMS Act," Gupta said. According to Euro Monitor report, 10,445 tonnes of standard infant formula (6 months) were sold in India in 2012, which is 10,445,000 kg of milk powder.

"Importing 100 kg of milk powder, it means India sells about 27 million containers of 400 gms each (one almost equal to 100 kg) in feeding the 100 million of young of Formula industry in 2012. This figure will be 36.7 million," he said.
