Record 10.4% jump in tourists on 1st day of Chinese New Year

Beijing, Jan 28: CHINA has witnessed a 10.4% surge in tourist numbers, the first day of the week-long Lunar New Year holiday, with the number of visitors touching a record 50.6 million, officials said on Saturday.

In Beijing alone, 294,000 tourists visited the city's 160 key scenic spots on Friday, the first day of the Chinese New Year of the Rooster celebrations.

Tourism-generated income climbed to 30 billion yuan ($4.6 billion), up 13.3% from one year earlier, the China National Tourism Administration said.

China was on Friday officially shut down for a week to welcome the Chinese New Year of the Rooster, amid the biggest annual human migration, as people rushed to their native places to celebrate with their family members.

"Therefore, we would rather complete jobs that are in better state of readiness than complete jobs and get stuck for money and working capital," he said. As for the impact of the government's initiatives to curb the parallel economy and make a transition to cashless economy, he said, "The government's move to lift growth through infra spend and tax reforms take effect."

The earnings before interest tax depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) increased by 19% y-o-y to ₹2,200 crore, while the EBITDA margin improved 140 basis points to 9.6%. The company held onto its guidance of a 50 basis points increase in its operating margins for the year. Trump bars refugees, visitors from 7 nations

The order seeks to prioritise refugees fleeing religious persecution, a move Trump separately said was aimed at helping Christians in Syria. That has led to a question whether the order was constitutional.

One group said it would announce a court challenge on Monday. The Council on American-Islamic Relations said the order was unconstitutional. The US Constitution guarantees the right to freedom of religion, "President Trump has cloaked what is a discriminatory ban against Muslims coming to the US under the banner of national security," said Greg Chen of the American Immigration Lawyers Association. The ban, through temporary, took effect immediately, causing havoc and confusion for would-be travellers with passports from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen. Trump has long pledged to make this kind of action, making it a prominent feature of his campaign, but people who work with Muslim immigrants and refugees were scrambling on Friday night to determine the scope of the order. Even legal permanent residents—people with "green cards" allowing them to live and work in the US—were being advised to consult immigration lawyers before travelling outside the country or trying to return, said Muslim Advocates, a civil rights group in Washington.

On Friday, Abed Ayoub of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee said he had fielded about 100 queries from people anxious about the order, which he believed could affect travelling green card holders, students, people coming to the US for medical care and others.

"It's chaos," Ayoub said. Trump's order also suspends the Syrian refugee programme until further notice, and will eventually give priority to minority religious groups fleeing persecution, Trump said in an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network that the exception would help Syrian Christians fleeing the civil war. Three legal experts were divided on whether this order would be constitutional.

"If they are thinking about an exception for Christians, in almost any other legal context discriminating in favour of one religion and against another religion could violate the constitution," said Stephen Lagon, a former chief counsel at US Citizenship and Immigration Services in the Obama administration. But Peter Spina, a professor at Temple University Beasley School of Law, said Trump's action would likely be constitutional because the president and Congress are allowed considerable deference when it comes to asylum decisions. The order may also affect special refugee programmes for Iraqis who worked for the US government's translators after the 2003 invasion of Iraq. Democrats were quick to condemn Trump's order as unconstitutional, saying it would tarnish the reputation of the US as a land that welcomes immigrants. "Today's executive order from President Trump is more about extreme xenophobia than extreme vetting," said Democratic senator Ed Markey in a statement.

Record 10.4% jump in tourists on 1st day of Chinese New Year

Beijing, Jan 28: CHINA has witnessed a 10.4% surge in tourist numbers, the first day of the week-long Lunar New Year holiday, with the number of visitors touching a record 50.5 million, officials said on Saturday.

In Beijing alone, 254,000 tourists visited the city's 160 key scenic spots on Friday, the first day of the Chinese New Year of the Rooster celebrations.

Tourist-generated income climbed to 59 billion yuan ($8.67 billion), up 13.3% from one year earlier, the China National Tourism Administration said.

China was on Friday officially shut down for a week to welcome the Chinese New Year of the Rooster and amid the biggest annual human migration, as people rushed to their native places to celebrate with their family members.

In terms of outbound tourism, Phuket and Bangkok of Thailand, Nha Trang of Vietnam, Bali of Indonesia, and Singapore were among the most popular destinations.

It is estimated that over six million Chinese people will travel abroad during the holiday.

Meanwhile, over 14.2 billion e-gift red packets, known as 'hongbao', were distributed through WeChat, the instant messaging app, during the Chinese New Year being celebrated on Saturday. This is 73.7% higher than last year, according to WeChat, which is operated by Tencent.

"Therefore, we would rather complete jobs in the current state of readiness than complete jobs and get stuck for money and working capital," he said. As for the impact of de-monetisation, the company in a statement said the government's initiatives to curb the parallel economy and make a transition to cashless economy have caused disruption whose impact on the business sentiment is yet to be conclusively assessed. "The challenging business conditions are expected to continue in the next few quarters until the government moves to lift growth through infra spend and tax reforms take effect."

The earnings before interest tax depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) increased by 18% to ₹1,230 crore, while the EBITDA margin improved 140 basis points to 5.6%. The company held onto its guidance of a 50 basis points increase in its operating margins for the year. "Last year, excluding the services business, other businesses added 100 bps margin adjusted for INR AS and we guided that we could close the year at about 10%, we do think we will reach that at the end of the year," Ramnath said.

Trump has refugees, visitors from 7 nations

The order seeks to prioritise refugees fleeing religious persecution, a move Trump separately said was aimed at helping Christians in Syria. That led some legal experts to question whether the order was constitutional.

One group said it would announce a court challenge on Monday. The Council on American-Islamic Relations said the order targets Muslims because of their faith, contravening the US Constitution's right to freedom of religion. "President Trump has cloaked what is a discriminatory ban against Muslims of Muslim countries under the banner of national security," said Greg Chen of the American Immigration Lawyers Association. The ban, though temporary, took effect immediately, causing havoc on consular officers would-be travellers with passports from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen. Trump has long pledged to take this kind of action, making it prominent feature of his campaign, but people who work with Muslim immigrants and refugees were scrambling on Friday night to determine the scope of the order. Even legal permanent residents—people with "green cards" allowing them to live and work in the US—were being advised to consider new scrambling before travelling outside the country or trying to return, said Muslim Advocates, a civil rights group in Washington.

On Friday, Abed Ayoub of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee said he had filed about 100 queries from people anxious about the order, which he said he believed could affect travelling green card holders, students, people coming to the US for medical care and others.

"It's chaos," Ayoub said. Trump's order also suspends the Syrian refugee programme until further notice, and will eventually give priority to minority religious groups fleeing persecution. Trump said in an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network that the exception would help Syrian Christians fleeing the civil war there. Legal experts were divided on whether this order would be constitutional.

"If they are thinking about an exception for Christians, in almost any other legal context discriminating in favour of one religion and against another religion could violate the constitution," said Stephen Lagon, a former chief counsel at US Citizenship and Immigration Services in the Obama administration. But Peter Spiro, a professor at Temple University Beasley School of Law, said Trump's action would likely be constitutional because the president and Congress are allowed considerable deference when it comes to asylum decisions.

The order may also affect special visa programmes for Iraqis who worked for the US government's translators after the 2003 invasion of Iraq. Democrats were quick to condemn Trump's order as un-American, saying it would tarnish the reputation of the US as a land that welcomes immigrants. "Today's executive order from President Trump is more about extreme xenophobia than extreme vetting," said Democratic senator Ed Markey in a statement.

India Post gets payments bank licence to start services

New Delhi, Jan 28: India Post has received payments bank licence from the Reserve Bank of India to start rollout of banking operations commercially under the post. India Post has received payments bank licence. The service will be launched as per schedule, a department of posts official said. India Post Payments Bank is the third entity to receive payments bank permit after Bharati Airtel and Paytm.

Payments banks can accept deposits up to ₹1 lakh per account from individuals and small businesses.

The new model of banking allows micro firms, super-market chains and others to cater to banking requirements of individuals and small businesses. It will be set up as a differentiated bank and will confine its activities to acceptance of demand deposits, remittance services, Internet banking and automated teller services.

In 2015, RBI had granted 'in-principle' approval to 11 entities, including department of posts, to set up payments banks and proposed to give such licences 'on tap' basis in future.

Trump bans refugees, visitors from 7 nations

The order seeks to prioritise refugees fleeing religious persecution, a move Trump separately said was aimed at helping Christians in Syria. The order also seeks to question whether the order was constitutional.

One group said it would announce a court challenge on Monday. The Council on American-Islamic Relations said the order targets Muslims because of their faith, contravening the US Constitution's right to freedom of religion. "President Trump has cloaked what is a discriminatory ban against Muslims under the banner of national security," said Greg Chen of the American Immigration Lawyers Association. The ban, though temporary, took effect immediately, causing havoc and confusion for would-be travellers with passports from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen. Trump's ban on refugees and visitors from 7 nations is a significant step towards his goal of making the US a more secure country.

prominent feature of his campaign, but people who work with Muslim immigrants and refugees were scrambling on Friday night to determine the scope of the order. Even legal permanent residents—people with "green cards" allowing them to live and work in the US—were being advised to consult immigration lawyers before travelling outside the country or trying to return, said Muslim Advocates, a civil rights group in Washington.

On Friday, Abed Ayoub of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee said he had fielded about 100 queries from people anxious about the order, which he believed could affect travelling green card holders, students, people coming to the US for medical care and others.

"It's chaos," Ayoub said. Trump's order also suspends the Syrian refugee programme until further notice, and will eventually give priority to minority religious groups fleeing persecution. Trump said in an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network that the exception would help Syrian Christians fleeing the civil war. The order also suspends the US government's translators after the 2003 invasion of Iraq. Democrats were quick to condemn Trump's order as un-American, saying it would harm the reputation of the US as a land that welcomes immigrants. "Today's executive order from President Trump is more about extreme xenophobia than extreme vetting," said Democratic senator Ed Markey in a statement.

Beijing, Jan 28: CHINA has witnessed a 10.4% surge in tourist numbers, the first day of the week-long Lunar New Year holiday, with the number of visitors touching a record 56.5 million, officials said on Saturday.

In Beijing alone, 294,000 tourists visited the city's 160 key scenic spots on Friday, the first day of the Chinese New Year of the Rooster celebrations.

Tourist-generated income climbed to 89 billion yuan ($8.67 billion), up 13% from one year earlier, the China National Tourism Administration said.

China was on Friday officially shut down for a week to welcome the Chinese New Year of the Rooster amid the biggest annual human migration, as people rushed to their native places to celebrate with their family members.

"Therefore, we would rather complete jobs that are in better shape of realisations than complete jobs and get stuck for money and working capital," he said. As for the impact of demonetisation, the company in a statement said the government's initiatives to curb the parallel economy and make a transition to cashless economy have caused disruption whose impact on the business sentiment is yet to be conclusively assessed. "The challenging business conditions are expected to continue in the next few quarters while the government moves to lift growth through infra spend and tax reforms take effect."

The earnings before interest tax depreciation and amortisation (EBITDA) increased by 39% y-o-y to ₹2,639 crore, while the EBITDA margin improved 140 basis points to 56.7%. The company held on to its position of a 50 basis points increase in its operating margins for the year. Trump bars refugees, visitors from 7 nations

The order seeks to prioritise refugees fleeing religious persecution, a move Trump separately said was aimed at helping Christians in Syria. That left some legal experts to question whether the order was constitutional.

One group said it would announce a court challenge on Monday. The Council on American-Islamic Relations said the order targets Muslims because of their faith, contravening the US Constitutional right to freedom of religion. "President Trump has cloaked what is a discriminatory ban against Muslims countries under the banner of national security," said Greg Chen of the American Immigration Lawyers Association. The ban, though temporary, took effect immediately, causing havoc and confusion for would-be travellers with passports from Iran, Iraq, Libya, Somalia, Sudan, Syria and Yemen. Trump has long pledged to tighten this kind of action, making it a prominent feature of his campaign, but people who work with Muslim immigrants and refugees were scrambling on Friday night to determine the scope of the order. Even legal permanent residents—people with "green cards" allowing them to live and work in the US—were being advised to consult immigration lawyers before travelling outside the country or trying to return, said Muslim Advocates, a civil rights group in Washington.

On Friday, Abed Ayoub of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee said he had fielded about 100 queries from people anxious about the order, which he said he believed could affect travelling green card holders, students, people coming to the US for medical care and others.

"It's chaos," Ayoub said. Trump's order also suspends the Syrian refugee programme until further notice, and will eventually give priority to minority religious groups fleeing persecution. Trump said in an interview with the Christian Broadcasting Network that the exception would help Syrian Christians fleeing the civil war. Legaleers were divided on whether this order would be constitutional.

"If they are thinking about an exception for Christians, in almost any other legal context discriminating in favour of one religion and against another religion could violate the constitution," said Stephen Legomsky, a former chief counsel to US Citizenship and Immigration Services in the Obama administration. But Peter Spiro, a professor at Temple University Beasley School of Law, said Trump's action would likely be constitutional because the president and Congress are allowed considerable deference when it comes to asylum decisions.

The order may also affect special refugee programmes for Iraqis who worked for the US government as translators after the 2003 invasion of Iraq. Democrats were quick to condemn Trump's order as un-American, saying it would tarnish the reputation of the US as a land that welcomes immigrants. "This executive order from President Trump is more about extreme xenophobia than extreme vetting," said Democratic senator Edward Markey in a statement.

India Post gets payments bank licence to start services

New Delhi, Jan 28: India Post has received payments bank licence from the Reserve Bank of India to start rollout of banking operations commercially under the name 'India Post Payments Bank'. The service will be launched as per schedule, a department of posts official said. India Post Payments Bank is the third entity to receive payments bank permit after BharatAirtel and Paytm.

Payments banks can accept deposits up to ₹1 lakh per account from individuals and small businesses.

The new model of banking allows mobile firms, super-market chains and others to cater to banking requirements of individuals and small businesses. It will be used as a differentiated service and will confine its activities to acceptance of demand deposits, remittance services, internet banking and other specified services.

In 2015, RBI had granted payments bank licence to 11 entities, including department of posts, to set up payments banks and proposed to give full licences 'on tap' basis in future.
