China begins $71 bn liquidity for investors

BLOOMBERG
October 10

CHINA'S CENTRAL BANK has set up a swap facility to provide liquidity to institutional investors to buy stocks, part of a broad stimulus package announced earlier that ignited a rally in equities.

The People's Bank of China (PBOC) will accept applications from eligible securities firms, funds and insurers starting Thursday to obtain highly liquid assets such as government bonds and central bank bills if they provide certain collateral. The size of the tool is 500 billion yuan ($7.6 billion) and can be expanded in the future, the monetary authority said.

PBOC governor Pan Gongsheng unveiled the mechanism as part of a stimulus bonanza last month that signaled the government's intent to draw a line under the slowing economy. The moves fueled a world-beating rally that saw shares rise as much as 30%.

The funds obtained through the facility can only go toward investment in the stock market, Pan said at the time. Bonds, stock ETFs, CSI 300 constituent shares and other assets could be used as collat-

US CPI rises more than forecast in September

REUTERS
Washington, October 10

US CONSUMER PRICES rose slightly more than expected in September, but the annual increase in inflation was the smallest in more than three and a half years, potentially keeping the Federal Reserve on track to cut interest rates again next month.

The consumer price index increased 0.2% last month after gaining 0.2% in August, the labour department's bureau of labour statistics said on Thursday. In the 12 months through September, the CPI climbed 2.4%. That was the smallest year-on-year rise since February 2021 and followed a 2.5% advance in August.

Economists polled by Reuters had forecast the CPI edging up 0.1% and rising 2.3% year-on-year. The annual increase in inflation has slowed from a peak of 9.1% in June 2022. In a separate report, the labour department said initial claims for state unemployment benefits increased 33,000 to a seasonally adjusted 258,000, for the week ended October 5, the highest level since early August 2023.

Tesla gambles on 'black box' AI for robotaxis

NORIIHIKO SHIROUZO
& CHRIS KIRKHAM
October 10

TESLA AIMS TO stun on investors Thursday night with its long-awaited "robotaxi unveil," a potential milestone after a decade of Elon Musk's unfulfilled promises to deliver self-driving vehicles.

The automaker is widely expected to showcase a prototype called the "Cybercab" rather than a road-ready driverless taxi. Convincing regulators and passengers of the vehicle's safety could prove much harder and take much longer — while its main competitors, such as Alphabet's Waymo, expand robotaxi fleets they're already operating in select cities today.

Tesla has to date pursued a different technological path than all of its major self-driving rivals — one with potentially higher rewards but also higher risks to both its business and its passengers, according to Reuters interviews with more than a dozen executives, consultants and academics specialising in self-driving technology and three former Tesla autonomous-vehicle engineers. Tesla's strategy relies solely on a combination of "computer vision," which aims to use cameras the way humans use eyes, with an artificial-intelligence technology called end-to-end machine learning that instantly translates the images into driving decisions.

Tesla is widely expected to showcase a prototype called the "Cybercab"

That technology already underpins its "Full Self-Driving" driver-assistance feature that, despite its name, can't be operated safely without a human driver. Musk has said Tesla is using the same approach to develop fully autonomous robotaxis.

Tesla's competitors — including Waymo, Amazon's Zoox, General Motors' Cruise and a host of Chinese firms — use the same technology but typically layer on redundant systems and sensors such as radar, lidar and sophisticated mapping to ensure safety and win regulatory approval for their driverless vehicles.

Tesla's strategy is simpler, and much cheaper, but has two critical weaknesses, industry executives, autonomous-vehicle experts and one of the Tesla engineers told Reuters. Without the layered technologies used by its peers, Tesla's system struggles more with so-called "edge cases" — rare driving scenarios that self-driving systems and their human engineers struggle to anticipate.

The other major challenge: The end-to-end AI technology is a "black box," the Tesla engineer said, making it "nearly impossible" to "see what went wrong when it misbehaves and causes an accident."

The inability to precisely identify such failures, he said, makes it difficult to safeguard against them. — REUTERS

Israel fires at UN positions in south Lebanon

MAYA GEBEILY & ALEXANDER CORNWELL
Beirut/Jerusalem, October 10

ISRAELI FORCES FIRED on two positions used by UN peacekeepers in Lebanon on Thursday and at a third one on Wednesday, the UN force said, as Israel warned Lebanese civilians not to return to homes in the south and pressed on with its assault on Hezbollah.

The UNIFIL force said two of its peacekeepers were injured in one of the incidents, when an Israeli tank fired at a watchtower at the force's main headquarters in Naqoura, hitting the tower and causing them to fall. There were no casualties in the other two incidents, a UN source said.

"Any deliberate attack on peacekeepers is a grave violation of international humanitarian law," UNIFIL said, adding that it was following up with the Israeli military. There was no immediate comment from the Israeli military, which is waging a widening offensive in Lebanon against the heavily armed, Iran-backed Hezbollah movement.

The conflict erupted one year ago when Hezbollah opened fire in support of Hamas at the start of the Gaza war. It has escalated dramatically in recent weeks, with Israel using airstrikes to pound Beirut's southern suburbs, the south, and the Bekaa Valley, before sending in ground forces. — REUTERS

Hurricane Milton leaves millions without power, snarls air traffic

HURRICANE MILTON ROARED ashore in Florida near Sarasota late on Wednesday knocking out power to more than 3 million customers and causing widespread flooding. But officials were cautiously optimistic that damage won't reach the level wrought by Hurricane Ian in 2022. Governor Ron DeSantis said Florida avoided a "worst-case scenario" even as emergency crews start assessing damages and dealing with widespread power outages. In addition to Milton's wrath, the hurricane spawned a rash of tornadoes across central Florida

Wednesday afternoon that killed at least four people.

Between the hurricane impacts and the tornadoes, damages and losses may reach between $60 billion to $75 billion, said Chuck Watson, a disaster modeler with Enki Research. — BLOOMBERG
